Nature Masterclasses

Next sessions of the PhD students Coffee Time will be focused on one of the Natures Masterclasses we selected last meeting. One of the courses is about scientific writing and publishing. This course allows you to develop writing skills and understand how the editorial process works. On the other hand, we also selected a couple of data analysis courses. These two courses aim to learn about your data and how to explore it to get the most out of it. In the next sessions we will try to make the information provided in these courses available to the Coffee Time attendees.
