Climate-KIC PhD Summer Schools

Our two-week Summer Schools have climate-related topics and take place in four European locations. Connecting PhD students from around the globe, the Summer Schools are hubs for new ideas with interdisciplinary approaches.

Don't sit by the sidelines, take action on climate change and help create real solutions!

Expand your horizons by linking your individual research project to real-life innovations

Become part of an active and influential network of entrepreneurs, businesses, regional governments and academic institutions.
