Unit 1 A family affair

Grammar

Present simple and continuous, present perfect simple and continuous

1 Read this email and put the verbs in brackets into the correct tense (present simple or continuous, present perfect simple or continuous).

To: Steph

Hi Steph

How are you? I (1) 'm having (have) a lovely time here in Spain. Sorry I (2) (not write) to you for ages but I (3) (work) hard here in Spain since I arrived six weeks ago. I (4) (stay) with a lovely family (see photo!) who (5) (live) in a village near Ronda. I (6) (think) you'd like it here. The parents are called Diego (he's a doctor) and Elena. Diego's family (7) (always live) here so everybody (8) (know) them. My job is to look after their three children who are 5, 8 and 13. I (9) (get up) every morning at about 6.30 as school (10) (start) early here but then I'm free till they get home at 2.30. I'm supposed to work on Saturdays but if Diego and Elena are here they often (11) (give) me the day off. They (12) (go) to Madrid this weekend so I (13) (look after) the children. They (14) (play) in the garden since breakfast though and they're quite happy so I (15) (write) emails all morning. I (16) (send) six so far! The two younger children are very sweet but the teenager (17) (always complain) about something. I (18) (remember) being like that though when I was 13.

I won't see you until the end of September because I (19) (change) my flight. I (20) (want) to travel round Spain before I come home.

Write back and tell me your news.

Love Emily

I'd arranged to meet my friend, Tom, in a café. I'd been waiting for him there all evening and I (1) was moving towards ~~was making for~~ the door when I thought I saw him on the other side of the road. I could just (2) manage to see his black curly hair and the funny scarf he always wears. He was hurrying in the other direction. I ran over to him and he (3) invented a story about an emergency. We're always arguing. In fact we'd only just (4) become friends again after our last big argument.

Writing

Spelling and punctuation

Read part of a student's composition and correct the spelling and punctuation. There are 15 mistakes. The first one is corrected for you.

definitely
I ~~definitely~~ think that teenage year's should be the best in everyones life because you can have fun and you have fewer problems than adults teenagers know how to have a good time. Most teenagers have a lot of freinds and they discuss things that they are interested in. Teenagers have to be in fashion wearing up-to-date cloths and listening to modern music. They also like to do sports and compete in matchs. But teenager's parents sometimes have a difficult time and they dont understand why? Wouldnt you feel angry if someone went into your room without permission. So do teenagers. As teenagers grow up they stop thinking like children and their believes and their interests change. My opinion is that teenage years are magical and Id like to stay a teenager forever.

Listening Part 3

Exam information

Read A-F and listen carefully to each speaker. The words you hear will be different from those below.

② You will hear five different teenagers talking about a family day out. For questions 1-5, choose from the list A-F what each speaker says about the day. Use the letters only once. There is one extra letter which you do not need to use.

- A I was disappointed about something.
- B I enjoyed the day more than I had expected.
- C I had a better time than some members of my family.
- D I was annoyed about a change of plan.
- E There wasn't time to do everything I wanted.
- F I was relieved that the day was a success.

- says they accept their situation because they don't know anything different? 4
- realises that the company of other children is important for only children? 5
- finds their present circumstances a challenge? 6
- says that only children have needs which can be difficult for others to deal with? 7
- realised at a particular point that they were happy being an only child? 8
- was unaware that their reactions to being an only child were not unique? 9
- had problems as a child because they lacked a necessary skill? 10
- has the opinion that there are more disadvantages than advantages? 11
- enjoys having space that is their own? 12
- thinks they developed a better understanding of adults because of being an only child? 13
- mentions a positive benefit of spending a lot of time alone? 14
- is aware that other people feel sorry for them? 15

Being an only child

"What's it like to spend a lifetime without brothers and sisters?" asks Jaanna Moorhead.

A Sam Thompson, aged 10

When my mum's friend had a baby it made me think about being an only child for the first time. I thought, would I like to have brothers and sisters? But to be honest, my friend's sister looked quite annoying – he was always having to watch her and I decided I was better off on my own. There are lots of good things about being an only child. I have privacy, and I like that; some of my friends have to share a bedroom and I know that will never happen to me. Plus I get time on my own with Mum and Dad, and that's special.

One thing that is good is that my friend Thomas lives really close by, so it's easy for me to go and see him. I'd be happy to have just one child, but I'd always make sure we lived close to other kids.

B Bethany Shaw, aged 15

One of the bad things about being an only child when you're young is the reaction you get from other people. They think you're spoilt – you see that look in their eyes.

And then you have to prove you're not spoilt, although you know you're not and nor are most only children.

When I was little my friends thought I was lucky being an only one, but now when I tell friends I can tell they're thinking, that must be hard ... she's not got a sister to go shopping with, or a brother to help with her homework. All my friends have brothers and sisters and it can be a bit lonely. In general, I think the negatives outweigh the positives, but on the other hand it's all I've known and I'm OK with it.

C Leah Mitchell, aged 29

I went away to school when I was seven, and the hardest thing I found was making friends. Because I was an only child, I just didn't know how to do it. The thing is that when you're an only child you're often the only child in a gathering of adults. I found being an only child interesting, in that it gave me a place at the grown-ups' table and gave me a view into their world that children in a big family might not get. And I know it has, at least partly, made me into the person I am: I never like the idea of being one of a group, for example. I'm not comfortable with being one of a gang.

D Laura Arnold, aged 36

I was a happy child; I had the undivided love and attention of two people, and it made me very confident and secure. I know some only children feel stifled by their parents' constant demands and worries, but that wasn't my experience.

I found being an only child enriching, which I think is mainly because we get on so well. I've got two children now and I do find that scary. The problem is I've absolutely no experience of this kind of situation; nothing in my past has prepared me for having to divide myself between the needs of these two little people, and the guilt is hard when I feel I've not been there enough for one of them. And on a practical level, things like sibling rivalry are going to be a whole new ball game.

E Jasmine Weller, aged 49

I always felt a little odd, and assumed it was something about me. It was only in my 30s, when I was training to be a psychotherapist, that I found myself with a group of only children, describing our experiences. It was a revelation because it made me realise that other people felt many of the same things. Growing up in a small unit means we need time to ourselves, which can cause problems with partners and friends, who might misinterpret it as rejection. There are pluses too. Being on your own helps you to become resourceful, and develop your imagination and creativity.

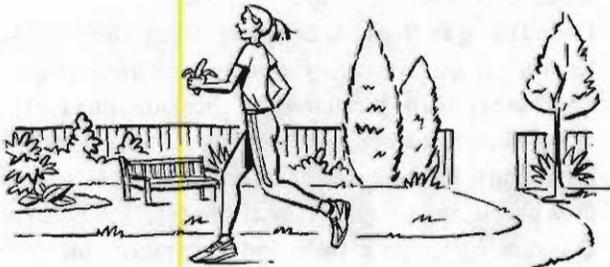

Unit 2 Leisure and pleasure

Grammar

Comparison of adjectives and adverbs

1 Complete the table with adjectives, adverbs and comparative forms.

Adjective	Comparative form	Adverb

Writing

Organising ideas into paragraphs

Look at the task and a student's plan on page 9. Match the selected sentences (1–9) from a student's answer to the correct paragraph (A–D).

- My sister and I often talk about playing 'Pom Pom Home' and we laugh about all the places we used to hide.
- I would like to teach this game to my children.
- It was really exciting when you were able to rescue all your friends.
- Any number of people can play but it's more fun with between six and eight players.
- From the ages of about nine to twelve, my favourite game was called 'Pom Pom Home'.
- On long summer evenings we'd play for hours and come home completely exhausted.
- To rescue someone you had to run and touch 'home' before the person who was 'IT'.

- 8 It's basically a more complicated form of 'Hide and Seek', which involves taking people prisoner.
- 9 I was always really thrilled when my older brother played with us because he was a fast runner and he would always rescue me if I got caught.

- 7 According to Toby, how is life different to chess?
 - A In chess it is easier to predict what will happen next.
 - B You don't need to plan life ahead as much.
 - C In chess you have more choices.

Use of English Part 4

For questions 1–8, complete the second sentence so that it has a similar meaning to the first sentence, using the word given. Do not change the word given. You must use between two to five words, including the word given. Here is an example (0).

Example

0 His sister plays chess better than he does.

AS

He doesn't play chess as well as his sister.

1 I was really excited during the race because I knew I was going to come first.

FOUND

I because I knew I was going to come first.

2 The ticket was cheaper than I had expected.

AS

The ticket I had expected.

3 Eliza was disappointed not to be chosen for the team.

FOR

It Eliza not to be chosen for the team.

4 The most enjoyable part of the day for Lucy was swimming in the river.

WHAT

Swimming in the river most about the day.

5 Taking regular exercise is how my grandmother lived to be 100.

BECAUSE

7 I think golf is more boring than any other sport.

LEAST

I think golf sport.

8 He plays chess with such confidence that everyone expects him to win.

CONFIDENT

He is that everyone expects him to win.

Use of English Part 2

For questions 1–12, read the text below and think of the word which best fits each gap. Use only one word in each gap. There is an example at the beginning (0).

Singing in a choir

The benefits of singing in a choir (0) are numerous. (1) range from the social; having the opportunity to make new friends, to the physical benefits of learning to breathe properly. Research has also shown that young people (2) singing in choirs do better (3) their studies and have a tendency to be healthier. But the first question you should ask yourself (4) you are considering joining a choir is 'can you sing in tune?' (5) might seem obvious, but unless you can, (6) is little point in seeking out a choir because you'll only get rejected. (7) choir you apply to join is (8) to want to audition you. Don't worry if you can't read music; that can (9) taught later. If you're accepted, you'll find choir practices to be hard work, but great fun, because they're social events as much as music training. You'll learn to read music (10) how to sing with confidence. (11) voice and technique will develop, probably quite quickly with proper instruction, and you may just end up wondering (12) you didn't do this years ago.

Unit 3 Happy holidays!

Grammar

Reading Part 1

Exam information

Read the text carefully before choosing the correct answer.

You are going to read an article from the internet. For questions 1–8, choose the answer (A, B, C or D) which you think fits best according to the text.

In from the cold

Jim Whyte flew out of Japan after spending four months crossing Siberia.

I got my usual seat on the plane, between the man with a large laptop and the woman with a screaming baby and directly in front of the kicking toddler. On this flight I had the added bonus of being at the front up against the wall which meant no legroom and no view of the movies. I'd read the in-flight magazine for the fifth time and discovered that the films I hadn't seen were being shown on every flight operated by the airline except this one, all before the plane had finished taxiing down the runway.

The flight home followed almost exactly the route I'd taken since November, flying via Seoul, Beijing and Mongolia to Irkutsk and then across the frozen wastes to Moscow. I looked out of the window for any signs of something familiar but I could see nothing but a sea of frozen trees stretching north to the Arctic Sea. A journey that had taken four months, several visas and huge quantities of thermal underwear to complete now took little more than 12 hours, three lousy films and two airline meals to undo.

As the plane came in to land over London in the late afternoon sunshine, the Japanese and Korean tourists peered out of the windows for their first view through the London clouds of the suburbs round Heathrow Airport with the same enthusiasm I'd had for my first view of Kyoto or Ulan Baataar. After such a long time away, even I found the regimented streets a strange sight.

By the time I'd collected my luggage from the carousel, it was beginning to sink in that I was home. I was no longer some strange exotic creature attracting the stares and attention of the local people and I realised I resented this. At least with my long hair and shaggy beard it was a certainty that I would be stopped at customs. 'What was the purpose of your visit?' I was asked. I was really beginning to enjoy the reaction to my answers, but the customs officer had already had enough of me and let me go. The doors to the arrivals hall sprung open and I was greeted by a sea of smiling, welcoming faces which quickly turned blank again when they realised I wasn't their relative. By the time I'd reached the other side of the hall I'd lost the 'I'm back! Guess where I've been!' look on my face.

Little had changed in the past four months. If you had arrived back from such a journey some years ago, the UK could have been struck by a hurricane and you wouldn't have known about it until the pilot started circling above looking for a place to land. These days email, the internet and 24-hour news mean that, despite your best efforts, it's impossible to completely lose touch with home; well, except when you stay in a tent in Mongolia for a week or so.

It was with a sense of sadness that I unpacked my dirty clothes and put my trusty rucksack in the cupboard. Somehow it just didn't seem right to see a piece of luggage that had spent its whole life travelling through the wilds of the Arctic, Europe and the wide open spaces of Asia, now folded up and confined to a shelf above the towels and bed linen until I set off again.

I loved every minute of the trip especially seeing the northern lights in Abisko, the Trans-Siberian Railway, camping in Mongolia and New Year in China. After a few weeks in Japan I feel I only scratched the surface there. Capsule hotels, electric baths and bullet trains left me speechless. I was left totally exhausted and exhilarated by the experience and can't wait to go back once my bank manager gives me permission. I'm already planning my next journey and reckon that the perfect antidote to crossing Siberia in January is to cross the Sahara in August. What do you think?

line 8

- 1 What does Jim mean by 'I got my usual seat on the plane' in the first paragraph?
 - A He preferred to sit at the front of the plane.
 - B He always seemed to get the worst place to sit.
 - C He had got the seat he had asked for.
 - D He liked to sit in the same place on each flight.
- 2 What does 'this one' refer to in line 8?
 - A the airline
 - B the film
 - C the flight
 - D the magazine
- 3 What did Jim have in common with the tourists?
 - A He was not pleased at the clouds blocking his view.
 - B He was not sure whether he had made a wrong decision.
 - C He did not know this part of London very well either.
 - D He had experienced the same feelings on arriving in a new place.
- 4 How did Jim feel after he left the arrivals hall?
 - A irritated that nobody was interested in his homecoming
 - B disappointed that there was nobody to meet him
 - C upset that people weren't friendly towards him
 - D annoyed that the customs official hadn't trusted him
- 5 What does Jim say about keeping in touch while he was away?
 - A He would have preferred to be out of contact for longer.
 - B He was grateful that he was able to use email and the internet.
 - C He would have liked to have received more up-to-date news from home.
 - D He was relieved to get emails in some remote places.
- 6 What is Jim comparing when he says 'it just didn't seem right' in the sixth paragraph?
 - A his rucksack and the other luggage
 - B his dirty clothes and the linen in the cupboard
 - C his travels and his home life

- A For dessert we had a really nice cheesecake. It was the nicest cheesecake I had ever tasted. It was even nicer than the cheesecake my grandmother makes and her cheesecake is very, very nice.
- B It was my friend's 18th birthday so we ordered a big cake for her as a surprise. As soon as the waiter appeared with the cake, everyone in the restaurant started singing 'Happy Birthday'. My friend was really embarrassed.
- C We complained about the service but the manager didn't seem bothered. I think that's terrible. I mean, if a customer complains, the manager should do something about it. My dad says he doesn't know how a restaurant like that can survive. The food's rubbish anyway, it's not just the service that's bad.
- D I like Dylan's restaurant because the food is delicious. The waiters are really friendly and there is a good atmosphere there. All my friends like this restaurant because the food is good and it isn't expensive.
- E It's an unusual place because everyone sits together at long tables, so you have to talk to people you have never met before. There's no menu, only a list of two or three dishes on a blackboard. This means the food is always really fresh. I like sitting with people I don't know because you meet some interesting people that way.

Reading Part 2

You are going to read an article for American teenagers going overseas to study. Seven sentences have been removed from the article. Choose from the sentences A–H the one which fits each gap (1–7). There is one extra sentence which you do not need to use.

Exam information

When you have chosen a sentence for each gap, read the text before and after the gap again to check your answers.

Studying Abroad

Have you always dreamed of traveling, meeting lots of different people, and maybe picking up a language or two? No matter what country you live in, you can fly over the world's highest waterfalls in Venezuela, learn world trade in Japan, study in France, or take dancing lessons in Ghana.

How? 1 Semester, summer, and year-long programs allow you to attend school, take intensive language courses, or perform community service in another country. Read on to learn more about study abroad programs.

Besides the excitement of travel, you will experience new customs, holidays, foods, art, music, and politics firsthand.

2 This is because your viewpoint will be of an active member of the community, not as a tourist.

Another reason for studying abroad is that you'll become more self-assured. Christina studied in Caracas, Venezuela, a city of 10 million people and a huge change from her hometown of 35,000! Christina says she learned how to be better at standing up for herself and her beliefs and to express herself in another language. 3 In addition, living away from home can also help you adjust in the transition to college and adulthood. Matthew says when he returned from studying in Australia he was more mature and had a genuine interest in international affairs that really set him apart from his peers. 'After having gone abroad in high school, I found the transition to college to be straightforward – moving 560 miles from home didn't seem particularly daunting after having lived thousands of miles away.'

Although many academic programs abroad have academic requirements, you do not necessarily have to have the highest grades or marks to be eligible. 4 Who you are is as important as your academic record. Study programs abroad look for students who are independent, self-assured, enjoy new experiences and different types of people, and can handle challenges.

If you really hate change and don't like the idea of figuring things out all on your own, then studying abroad may not be for you. It's important to be honest with yourself and really think about what you expect. 5 Of course, if you want to change those things about yourself and don't mind tackling them head on, then studying abroad may be an ideal way to take the plunge.

Are you convinced that a year abroad is for you, but you're worried that your parents will never go for it?

5 Point out that studying abroad is a chance of a lifetime and that it offers great academic opportunities.

You might also sell them on the idea that students in study programs abroad gain experiences by being in a new culture, broaden their horizons, and increase their maturity and self-confidence levels.

7 These language skills, cross-cultural experiences, and global outlooks are becoming essential.

- A Use some of the points of view that sold you on the idea to explain why you want to study overseas.
- B But perhaps more importantly, the different circumstances mean you will learn a lot not only about cultures and people but also about yourself.
- C You could join a study program abroad, where high school and college students live with a host family in a foreign country.
- D What could give you more self-confidence than that?
- E You will have forgotten any doubts you once had about your decision.
- F And most do not have language requirements.
- G You could end up having a miserable time if you don't!
- H By studying abroad you will have an educational advantage when entering college or starting a career.

(1) I think that using the wind power to generate electricity is a great idea. Where I live in Lima, Peru, wind power would be a great alternative because of the low environmental impact, but the government doesn't have the resources to make such an investment.

(2) In addition, we have a huge bed of natural gas, and (3) so energy costs are much more affordable.

We can't use solar power in Lima, because the sky is grey (always cloudy), (4) but in other cities in Peru it is sunnier. Many people don't have enough money to pay for electricity in these places; (5) so they buy solar panels (sponsored by the government) and use these to generate electricity. (6) I think that this is a great way to reduce the cost of electricity and to help protect the environment.

Use of English Part 2

For questions 1–12, read the text below and think of the word which best fits each gap. Use only one word in each gap. There is an example at the beginning (0).

The effect of climate change on migratory birds

Human-induced climate change has begun to affect our planet and the organisms that live (0) on it. Many migratory birds are very sensitive to environmental changes and are already (1) affected by climate change. Increasing temperatures, changing vegetations and extreme weather conditions lead to significant changes of the birds' essential habitats. (2) are the most likely reasons for the dramatic decline in some bird populations and changes in migration patterns.

The ways in (3) migratory birds respond to these environmental changes differ across species. Generally speaking, short and middle distance migrating birds can adapt to climate changes more easily, (4) long distance migrants (5) at a disadvantage. Their migration pattern is usually more fixed and they struggle (6) readjusting to changing temperatures. (7) of this inflexibility they suffer more (8) the impacts of climate change than other birds.

Species that are already in decline are especially vulnerable to climate change. In (9) words, climate change may give these already very vulnerable species the final push (10) extinction. It is not only in the interest of migratory birds, (11) also in our own interest to protect all species (12) the impact of climate change.

Use of English Part 4

For questions 1–8, complete the second sentence so that it has a similar meaning to the first sentence, using the word given. Do not change the word given. You must use between two and five words, including the word given. Here is an example (0).

Working in films

You don't need to be (1) famous actor to get (2) part on (3) film set but you need to be willing to start at (4) bottom. For example, you could spend hours standing in (5) rain by (6) gate in (7) field stopping (8) people from coming in.

In (9) Britain and most other countries, you should look for (10) job as (11) 'runner'. Runners fetch things and help generally. This is (12) most junior job and even if you want to be (13) camera operator, it's (14) good place to start.

You could do (15) training course but (16) best qualification is (17) experience.

Writing

Applying for a job

a Read the question and two students' answers, A and B, below.

You have seen this advertisement for a job in your local English language newspaper.

We are looking for someone to work in our shop near the beach.

You should

- have worked in a shop before
- enjoy dealing with people
- be willing to work some weekends.

Write explaining why you would be suitable for the job to:

Mr Anna Richardson, Manager

SUNSHINE SPORTS SHOP

Write your letter of application in 120–180 words.

Check whether the students have answered the question. Put a tick or a cross in the boxes.

	Answer A	Answer B
Does the student mention their experience?
Does the student say they are good with people?
Does the student say when they can work?
Does the student say what they are doing now?
Does the student say why they are suitable for the job?
Has the letter got a good beginning?
Has the letter got a good ending?

b Which is the best answer? Why?

c Neither of the letters has paragraphs. Mark where they should go.

A

Dear Mrs Richardson, I recently saw the advertisement that appeared in the local newspaper on Saturday. I would like to apply for the job in your Sunshine Sports Shop. Firstly I would like to tell you about my experience. Last summer I worked for two months. I was selling pastries and coffee in a coffee shop. I worked there in two shifts, in the mornings and in the evenings for approximately 8–10 hours a day. My job also included cleaning after the shop closed. It means that I know what hard work is. I enjoyed having contact with other members of staff and also with clients. I really enjoyed working with them, meeting new people. I am sure I would be a good worker. Best wishes, Andrzej Tabecki

Dear Mrs Richardson, I'm writing in connection with the job advertisement. I am 22 years old and I am currently studying trade and tourism at university. I'm looking for a summer job. I like being at the beach and swimming and recently got a qualification as an assistant life-guard. Last summer I worked in an ice-cream shop at the beach and got used to approaching customers and handling money. I think that my experience will be useful in another shop like yours. Since I train every day, I'm very energetic and strong but I'm also patient and sociable. I will be available any weekday and some Saturdays. I would be happy to provide you with references. I look forward to hearing from you. Yours sincerely, Kyoko Sakamoto

Working in the news

Newspaper journalists or reporters source, research and write stories for publication in local, regional and national press. Four young reporters tell us what it's like for them and offer tips for those who are hoping to become journalists.

A Craig

I'm kept busy all the time and my aim is to keep on top of everything on a Monday and Wednesday so there is less pressure on Tuesday and Thursday which are deadline days.

As a reporter, you really have to be ready for anything. A story could come up on a subject you know nothing about and you may have just half an hour to read a report or past stories before you interview someone. I spend most of my time in the office, unfortunately.

My advice for potential journalists is that you need to be able to speak to anyone in all walks of life. A story could come up where the subject is close to your heart but you have to be unbiased and open to other people's opinions, even if you do not agree with them. Every subject is useful – you need to know a little bit about everything.

B Beth

I would say about 60% of my time is spent inside the office. It is always better to visit someone in their house as it makes for a much better story, but due to time constraints unfortunately this is not always possible.

The experience I'm gaining at a local newspaper will set me up for a job on a bigger newspaper. Local newspapers are a great source of news for national newspapers. The general agreement at my newspaper is that the story can be passed on as long as it has appeared in our paper first. The biggest hint I could give to journalism graduates is not to give up when you are turned down for your first few jobs.

To be a journalist you must be outgoing and professional; you will often find yourself in a situation where you have to generate a conversation with a complete stranger who may not want to speak to you! You also have to ensure accuracy in all stories.

C Andrew

I graduated in 1991 with a degree in film and literature. During my final year I sent my CV and a letter to 40–50 regional papers – and every morning I woke up to another rejection! Then I got a job. I think the editor was impressed by my commitment and also by the fact that I come from the area and know about local issues.

I now work from home on a freelance basis, writing features for the Sunday newspapers. You have to be very self-motivated and able to generate ideas for new stories all the time. In a good week I'll sell two or three features to magazines who pay around £400 – £500 per story. Some weeks I'll sell nothing.

Journalism isn't a profession where you progress upwards from one position to the next. I've made several moves already but it's not clear whether they were upwards, downwards or sideways! You need to be prepared to work hard to get work experience, get a qualification and demonstrate your commitment. If you're a specialist in anything (sport, music, computer games), write about it.

D Deborah

I had no career plan at all when I graduated – I found a job as a darkroom technician, one of the last, with a very small family-owned paper where I found myself doing all sorts of jobs. The paper has since been taken over and many of the jobs I did are now managed by computers. While there I decided to train as a journalist. I must be the only person in the universe to 'fall into' journalism!

A crucial part of my job is building contacts locally. I attend a lot of council meetings to try to find out what is going on with the 15,000 employees and attend numerous other meetings.

Why do I do it? It's certainly not for the money, which is very poor. I really enjoy seeing my words change things. The frustrations include leaving a story I'm enjoying working on because the editor wants something else.

Report on college trip to Brookwood Adventure Centre

Introduction

The aim of this report is to evaluate the recent college trip to Brookwood Adventure Centre and to make recommendations about future college visits to this centre.

College trip, June 19–23

Brookwood is conveniently situated from the college (2 hours by bus) near Bluewater Lake. 20 students from the college spent 5 days there and took part in a sailing course.

The Facilities

The accommodation was very comfortable and spacious. The food was excellent, although some students said there wasn't enough choice. There are also cheap restaurants a short bicycle ride away.

The courses

The activities were well-organised and safety standards were high. Students said they enjoyed the course despite the bad weather. Some students thought there weren't enough opportunities to practise sailing but they were all impressed with the instructors, who were all extremely experienced. Each student was given a lot of personal attention which helped them to develop their confidence.

Conclusion

I believe this course was beneficial for all the participants. It was also good value for money. For these reasons I would suggest organising the same trip next year.

Reading Part 2

5 You are going to read an article about a woman who works with celebrities as a fashion stylist. Seven sentences have been removed from the article. Choose from the sentences A-H the one which fits each gap (1-7). There is one extra sentence which you do not need to use.

'I often spend the day shopping'

Actress Helen Mirren

Rachel Fanconi, 35, is a fashion stylist who has worked with stars like David Beckham, Helen Mirren, Sadie Frost, Calista Flockhart and Robbie Williams. She was interviewed by Alex McRae

Fashion styling is basically about making people look nice. I work on editorial photo shoots, styling models for fashion spreads in magazines and newspapers, and I also style celebrities for big awards ceremonies. 1 There's actually a strong commercial element to styling.

A typical day usually starts with me packing up and returning clothes worn at an awards ceremony the night before, then heading out to find new things for my next assignment. Some stylists go through public relations agencies to find clothes. 2 As a stylist, your contacts are extremely important, so I'm very protective of mine. If I'm finding clothes for someone new, I'll call the person first to discuss their likes and dislikes, which helps me to put together a profile. Then I'll spend the day shopping and bring back lots of different outfits for them to choose from.

The best thing about my job is shopping. I hope that doesn't sound too shallow. 3 I work with a big list of people – models, make-up artists, photographers – on various different assignments, and it's lovely checking in with them if I haven't seen them for a few months. You're collaborating together to make something look gorgeous, and when things come together, it's hugely satisfying.

It's easy, however, to get caught up in the glamour of the job. I feel that with any demanding career, it's important to have a balance. 4 My husband and I are both stylists and we try to avoid this. We're great football fans – we go to lots of games and try to keep one part of our lives separate from our jobs.

There are a range of skills you need to be a top fashion stylist. It's not enough to have an artistic eye. 5 For example, if you go to gigs, exhibitions and plays, it will inform your work. During a fashion shoot, you have to be hawk-eyed, ready to swoop on any uneven hemlines. It is important to be really thorough and careful. I take digital photos and print out suggestions of shoe, bag and outfit combinations, to make sure everything goes together.

So the reality is that it's a lot of hard work. If you want to be a fashion stylist, get a qualification under your belt – not necessarily a degree in fashion styling, but maybe in design. 6 Then do work experience with a stylist in the most stressful environment possible – probably fashion shoots for a newspaper – so you learn to work under pressure to a deadline. Try to learn your craft from a stylist you admire, be as professional as you can, and be prepared to do a lot of work for free.

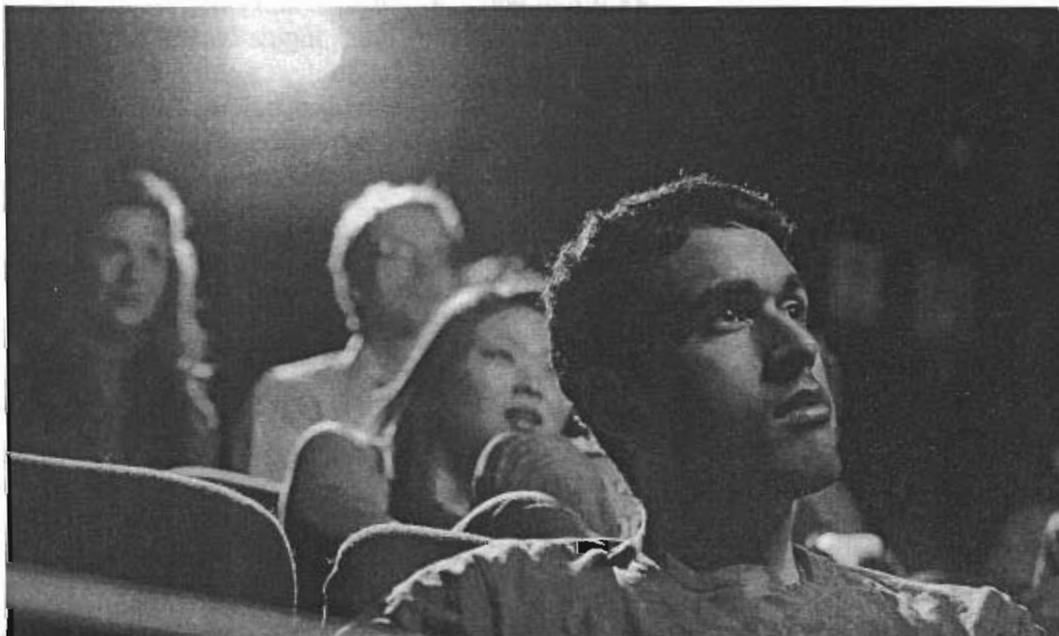

Don't expect to make any money for the first two years. 7 I'm nervous about saying what I earn, because I run my own business, but you get paid per assignment and it really varies. At the top end, stylists working on a television commercial could make £10,000 a day. You could work freelance, or for an agency.

- A Otherwise, you could let styling take over your life and become a caricature "fashion" person, in a bubble.
- B You should try to find inspiration in unexpected places.
- C In fact, you'll almost certainly have to supplement your income with other part-time work.
- D I work differently in that I prefer to deal with people directly, and I try to support London designers.
- E More important is planning and organization.
- F Their clothes are usually loaned, because when an outfit appears in a magazine or on a celebrity, it's advertising.
- G That will give you a useful range of skills.
- H Apart from that, it's the social aspect of the job which is important to me.

Listening Part 3

② Read the paragraph about risk-taking. Circle the correct modal in each sentence.

Psychologists believe that taking risks has always been part of human nature. For early humans, risk-taking (1) must / can't have been part of every day life. Psychologists think that early human risk takers (2) may / can't have been more likely to explore new places, possibly finding a new source of water or food. Such individuals (3) can't / might also have risked doing things differently, such as using a new kind of weapon or animal trap. These acts (4) must / mustn't have given the risk taker a great sense of achievement, but (5) can't / could also have profoundly benefited his or her group by improving their lives in some way.

Writing

Beginning and endings

① When you are writing a story it's very important to organise your ideas logically. Opposite is the first paragraph of a student's story, answering the exam question in the box below. It isn't organised coherently. Put the sentences A-F on the next page in the correct order.

You have decided to enter a short story competition in an English language magazine. The competition rules say the story must end with the words:

I had never felt so proud.

Write your story.

Paragraph 1

- A There were a lot of boats out on the lake.
- B I was taking my dog for a walk as usual by the lake.
- C Suddenly I saw one of the boys fall into the lake.
- D It started out as just another ordinary day.
- E His teacher hadn't seen him and he wasn't wearing a life-jacket.
- F I could see a group of young children who were learning to sail.

The order should be:

2 a Now read paragraph 2 and the three alternative endings.

Paragraph 2

Without thinking I jumped in and swam over to him. Fortunately, I had done a life-saving course the year before, so I knew what to do. Someone called for an ambulance and the boy was quickly rushed off to hospital. I had to give my name and address to the ambulance driver.

Ending 1

The next day I received a lot of visitors; first the boy's parents who wanted to thank me for saving their son's life, then a journalist who wanted to take my picture for the newspaper. And finally, a man from the local council who wanted to give me a medal for bravery came to see me. I had never felt so proud.

Ending 2

I was soaking wet and started shaking with cold, or perhaps it was shock. The man from the sailing club gave me a towel and some dry clothes and then I went home. As I was walking home, I started to think about what had happened. It made me feel scared at first because the boy could have drowned but then I started to feel quite proud of myself. In fact, I had never felt so proud.

Ending 3

I phoned my mum to ask her to collect me because I didn't want to walk home in wet clothes. I waited in the sailing club and they gave me a hot drink to warm me up. When she arrived I told her what had happened. Everyone said I was very brave. My mum was very pleased. I had never felt so proud.

b Which ending:

- a) best describes the writer's feelings?
- b) contains the most complex sentences?
- c) uses repetition for effect?
- d) jumps ahead in time?
- e) gives unnecessary details?
- f) makes the most impact?

Use of English Part 2

For questions 1–12, read the text below and think of the word which best fits each gap. Use only one word in each gap. There is an example at the beginning (0).

The happiest day of the year

A British psychologist says he can prove that the last Friday in June is the happiest day of the year.

Cliff Arnall, a University of Cardiff psychologist specialising (0) in seasonal disorders, (1) created a formula for finding happiness. The research looks (2) everything from increased outdoor activity and rising energy levels, (3) picnics and beach trips with families.

Mr Arnall's happiness formula depends (4) six factors: outdoor activity, nature, social interaction, positive memories of childhood summers, temperature, and holidays and anticipation of time off.

"At the end of June, the days are at their longest so (5) are more hours of sunshine to enjoy and it's a time (6) people have lots of gatherings with friends and family," Mr Arnall said.

"Happiness is associated with many things in life and can (7) triggered by a variety of events. Whether it's a sunny day (8) a childhood memory that triggers a feeling of happiness, I think this formula proves that the path to finding happiness is a simple (9)"

The research (10) commissioned to coincide with the launch (11) a photography competition asking people to capture moments of happiness associated (12) the experience of summer in Britain.

Unit 11 Spend, spend, spend!

Grammar

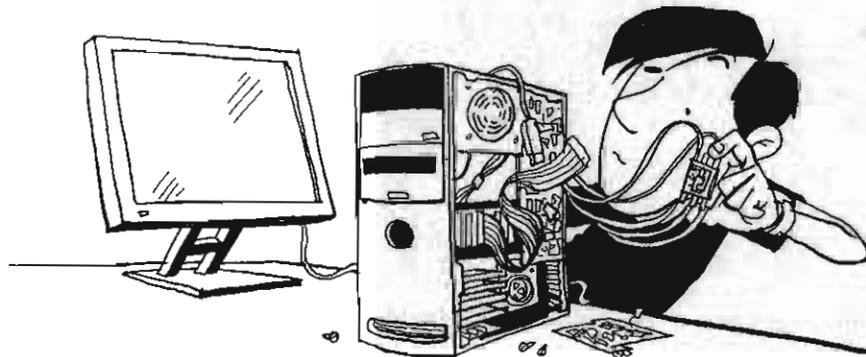

Expressing ability

① Put can, could or the correct form of able to in the gaps in these sentences. In three of the sentences there are two possible answers so write both.

- I might be able to give you a lift but I'm not sure yet.
- I (not) swim till last year. Until then I was nervous about going in a boat.
- I see Sarah in the distance. She'll be here soon.
- I've made the main course for dinner but I've been talking on the phone so I (not) make the dessert yet.
- When I was 14, I run from my home to the school in four minutes.

- (you) speak Chinese by the end of the course next month?
- I go to last Saturday's match in the end because my friend had a spare ticket.
- My brother (usually) fix the computer when it goes wrong.

As and like

② Are as and like used correctly in these sentences? Correct any mistakes and put a tick (✓) next to the sentences which are correct.

- As you know, this school has been here for more than 100 years. ✓
- I bought Jack the same CD ^{as} like you.
- Tommy looks as his grandfather did at the same age.
- As far as I remember, I don't think it was possible to fly direct to Mexico 20 years ago.
- I really admire Jason as an actor, but I don't really get on with him.
- A loganberry is a bit like a raspberry but bigger.
- Your hands are as cold like ice.
- We didn't talk about the important things as where we would live.
- The beginning of this film was exactly the same as the one we saw last week.
- I'm working in Italy at the moment like a tour guide.

Vocabulary

Shopping

1 Read the definitions and complete the puzzle. They are all places where you can buy things.

- 1 A large shop, divided into different parts, each part selling something different.
- 2 A group of shops, often covered and with its own car park.
- 3 A shop which specialises in selling clothes.
- 4 A place selling goods, often food, in an outdoor area.
- 5 A place where you can buy stamps and send parcels.
- 6 A small shop selling high quality foods, often from other countries.

Phrasal verbs

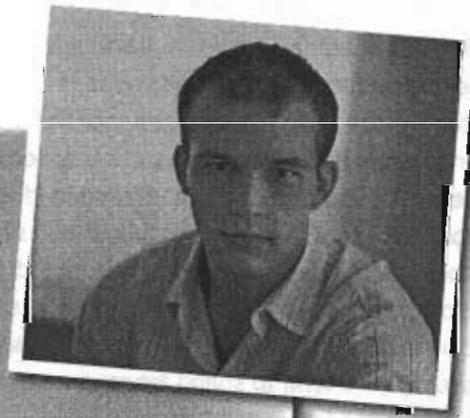

2 Read the text below. Underline the correct words.

LIFE'S LESSONS Andrew, 25

When I moved out of my parents' home into my first flat, I got into big trouble with money. I never looked at my bank statements. I knew my salary was paid (1) back / in every month but I just took (2) away / out however much I needed. I sometimes even gave money (3) in / away to friends who didn't have enough.

The stupid thing was that I worked in the foreign exchange department of a large bank so I spent all day checking which currencies had gone (4) on / up and which had come (5) down / out. But I never bothered to look at my own account. Of course I soon ran (6) down / out of money and I started to build (7) on / up a large debt.

I realised that I had to cut (8) back / off and go (9) out / without some things. Eventually I paid (10) out / off my debt. Now I sit down every month and add (11) up / up to how much I've spent and compare it with how much money I have.

Reading Part 2

You are going to read an article about the psychology of shopping. Seven sentences have been removed from the article. Choose from the sentences A–H the one which fits each gap (1–7). There is one extra sentence which you do not need to use.

Who's playing mind games with you?

Designing a shop is a science, as we found out when we did some research

A bit of retail therapy is supposed to be good for you. You stroll round the shops at leisure, try on items which catch your eye, make those purchases you've been meaning to get for ages. But who's really making the choices? You're certainly picking up the bill, but the shops could be having a bigger say than you think.

We all know how supermarkets use the smell of baking around the store to draw shoppers in and how soothing music can make you stay longer while faster tunes are designed to keep you on the move. 1 Tim Denison, who is a retail psychologist, confirmed this increase and he let me in on some of the secrets of the retail sector.

The shops are clearly far more sophisticated than you might think. 2 In fact this can start before you even get that far, with warm air over the doorway to encourage you in. Of course, that wouldn't work in hot countries. They have their own version with air conditioning at the entrance.

Smells are still a favourite – travel agents sometimes release a coconut odour to get you in the holiday mood. Items placed at eye level are supposed to sell better, and the end-of-aisle displays are best for persuading people to buy food they hadn't intended to. 3 You're then more likely to stop and buy something. Colours are also used successfully: a red carpet is thought to get you in the right mood for spending, while blue is too much like water, and could make you feel uneasy. 'We tend to spend longer on a red carpet than a blue one,' says Tim.

But where the art is really catching on is in the way it differentiates between women and men. A woman entering a shop might well find party clothes, with lots of frills and special materials, at the front. 'The key to effective retailing for women,' explains Tim 'is to make the buying of clothes an engaging experience.'

4 They will be grouped not by what they are but their style – classic or casual, for instance.

When men go shopping it's a different ball game. They want to buy a pair of jeans because their old ones have worn out. In fact, they probably want to get exactly the same jeans. 5 So menswear shops are laid out with everything in its place and men can buy what they want and go – shirts all together here, trousers over there, shoes along there. 'We all know that men hate shopping,' says Tim, 'so what we have to do is make it as simple and spartan as we can.'

6 They say that people want things made easy for them in today's 'cash rich, time poor' society. That's why strawberries and cream are put together – to save people the trip between the fruit and the dairy sections. There's no doubt that some of these techniques work but it's a real science to work out what goes where, with complex financial spreadsheets used to help make the decisions.

But just as the shops are becoming more sophisticated, so are the shoppers. If you're looking for a flat to buy or rent and you notice the smell of freshly brewed coffee, you're likely to get suspicious because this is an old trick to convince people it's a nice place to live. So while the mind games are targeting our subconscious, they tend to work well. 7 We don't mind spending our hard-earned cash, but we want to feel we're making the choices, not them.

- A Retailers would argue that they're meeting our needs.
- B Such items are placed near each other so they can be visualised together, as an outfit.
- C These kinds of techniques have been around for a while, but there's evidence that their use is growing.
- D When those decisions are made for us, it can stop us from buying anything at all.
- E You spend longer turning corners with awkward trolleys, so they catch your eye.
- F These shoppers don't want to be faced with ideas and suggestions.
- G But if they become too obvious, we're likely to resist, and things can backfire for shop-owners.
- H The minute you walk through their front doors, most of your senses are attacked.

Listening Part 1

12 You will hear people talking in three different situations.
For questions 1–3, choose the best answer (A, B or C).

- 1 You hear a woman talking to her son.
Why is she talking to him?
- A to refuse permission
 - B to make a suggestion
 - C to give a warning
- 2 You overhear a teenager talking to a shop assistant.
What does he want to do?
- A get a refund
 - B try something on
 - C exchange something
- 3 You overhear two people talking.
Where are they?
- A in a post office
 - B in a bookshop
 - C in a supermarket

Unit 12 Staying healthy

Grammar

Relative clauses

1 a Complete the sentences with the correct relative pronoun from the box.

which who whose where

- 1 There are a lot of after-school sports activities at my school but the people most need exercise don't go.
- 2 Schools provide relaxation classes for students get better exam results.

Writing

Developing your argument

1 Read the first draft of a student's answer to this essay and the teacher's comments.

You have been doing a project comparing people's eating habits today with the past. Your teacher has asked you to write an essay giving your opinions on the following statement:

Children's diets are unhealthier today than in the past.

Give an example.

There is a lot of evidence to show that children's diets are unhealthier today than in the past. (1) Today children's diets are unhealthier than in the past because they eat too many unhealthy snacks. (2) In the past children didn't buy so many snacks (3).

Explain why this is a problem.

Explain why not.

Children's diets are also unhealthier because they eat too much fast food (4). Nowadays a lot of mothers don't have time for cooking (5) so they buy supermarket meals to put in the microwave instead. In the past people didn't have microwaves. On the other hand, children's diets have improved a lot in the last 50 years. (6) There is a lot of information for parents about the kinds of food they should give their children. (7) Children are also taught about the importance of a good diet in school.

What is wrong with fast food?

Explain why not.

In what way?

Give an example.

2 Now match the sentences/clauses from the student's second draft (A-H) to the correct part (1-7) of the essay. There is one extra sentence which does not match.

A Most tins and packets that we buy today, for example, have labels on them saying exactly what they contain.

B which is bad for their health because this type of food isn't fresh and contains too much sugar, fat and salt.

C This means children don't eat as much healthy food as they should and so many of them are overweight.

D For example, children see these snacks advertised on television.

E Although many children in some countries still suffer from malnutrition, in richer countries most parents can afford to buy meat and fresh fruit for their children, which was not possible for a lot of families in the past.

F A good example of this is the fact that in many parts of the world childhood obesity has increased dramatically recently.

G because they have full-time jobs

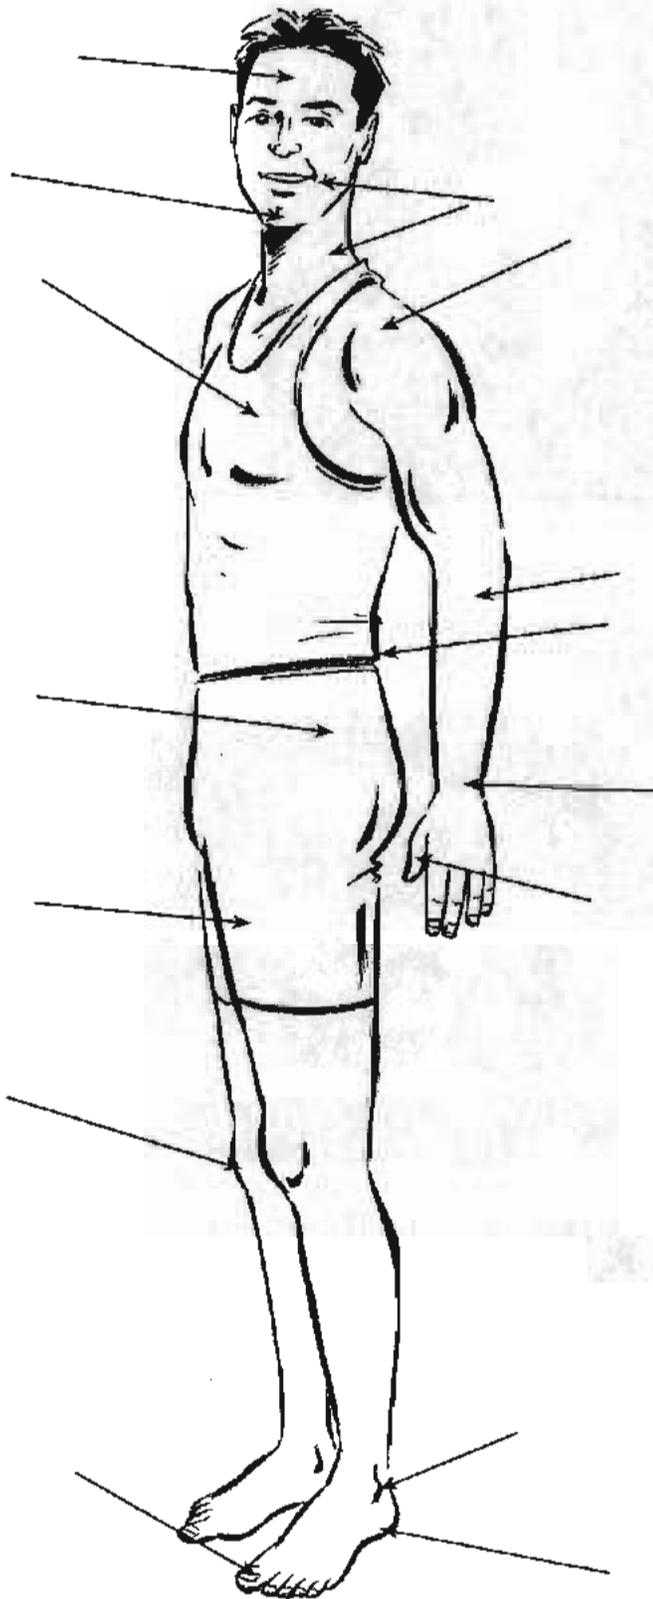

H because they didn't have as much money as children today.

Giving advice

Look at the beginnings of five sentences below. Choose endings from A-E to give advice about visiting Yellowstone Park in the USA. There are several possible answers. Then put one sentence into each gap in the email.

- | | |
|----------------------|---|
| 1 I'd advise you | A I'd check if any paths are closed before you set out. |
| 2 Make sure that you | B to wear a bell. |
| 3 The best idea is | C to carry lots of water with you. |
| 4 You should always | D tell someone where you are going. |
| 5 If I were you, | E walk with other people. |

Example: I'd advise you to wear a bell.

Dear Irena

You said in your last email that you're going to Yellowstone Park in the USA for a holiday. I went there last year and I know you'll have a good time.

But don't forget that Yellowstone is bear country. While you're walking make a lot of noise which frightens the bears away. (1) Some parts of the park are shut in spring and early summer. (2) The other thing to remember is that most of the park is wild. It can be dangerous to be on your own. (3) Even if you are in a group it's really important that you plan your route. (4) It can get very hot. (5)

Here's a photo of me in Yellowstone. It's a beautiful place.

Reading Part 1

You are going to read an article from a magazine. For questions 1–8, choose the answer (A, B, C or D) which you think fits best according to the text.

African Safari

Martin Symington went on a camping safari holiday with his wife and three teenagers

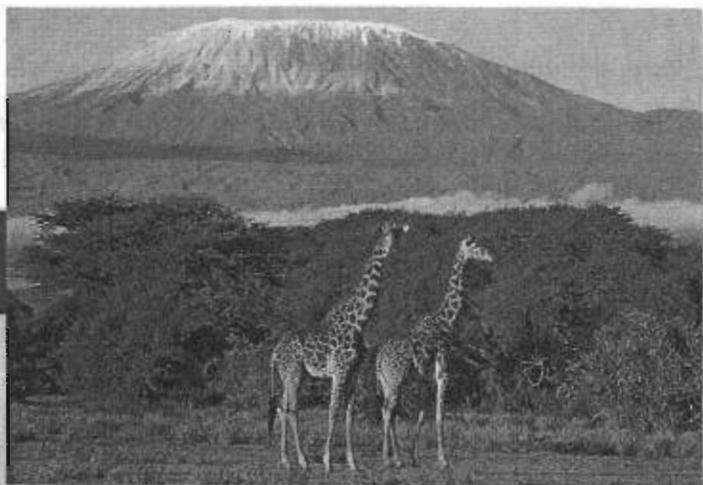

We stood silently under the stars, just metres from our tent, hardly daring to breathe. Adam, one of the camp staff, swept a torch beam across a clearing where four impala stood, panicky on their nimble legs. Could they sense the danger they were in? Did they know, as we did, that a female leopard lay under a thorn bush?

She sprang. Four shadowy shapes bounced into the woods. Had the leopard made a successful kill? We all had our theories, but in truth the whole scene had taken place too quickly, and in insufficient light, for any of us to be sure. Now we understood why we had been warned not to go out of our tent after dark, except when accompanied by a staff member. In fact, we had been on our way from the tent to the supper-time camp-fire when Adam's torch had unexpectedly caught the leopard's glinting green eyes. Half an hour later we had a tale to outdo most told around the fire. 'This has got to be the best nightlife in the world,' replied Toby, when some middle-aged fellow safari enthusiast asked him how he was enjoying his holiday.

So much for the assortment of self-appointed experts who doubted that safaris and teenagers would be a workable mix. True, this is a difficult age, with adolescents beginning to sense that they are too old for family holidays. But nor did ours want to return to beach resorts with the kind of 'teen clubs' they wouldn't be seen dead in. So, my wife Hennie and I reckoned, if we were going to have one really good family holiday, why not Africa?

Our holiday began with a flight to Arusha airport, then a long drive to West Kilimanjaro Camp – a semi-permanent gathering of explorer-style tents near the base of the great volcano which was to tease us with rare glimpses of her snowy summit which is 5,895 metres high.

We were introduced to Emmanuel Kinayet, our guide who led us on daily bush walks. Our children wanted to ask Emmanuel a thousand questions about himself and his life, but soon realised that was the wrong approach. Rather, his story seeped out by degrees as he escorted us through his homeland, stopping at places such as a muddy waterhole and a herders' settlement of huts.

Next we took to the hot African sky in a small plane and headed south. Unlike in West Kilimanjaro, there is no human population in the Ruaha other than a lodge for the park rangers, and four small safari camps. We chose to stay at Mdonya Old River Camp, because this is one that avoids luxuries such as soft beds and fluffy towels; these, to my mind, can become obstacles to connecting with nature in the raw. Instead, the five of us shared a simple, yet adequate, tent at the edge of a dried-up sand river.

If there was one disappointment about the wildlife viewing in Tanzania, it was that game drives are not permitted in any of the country's national parks after dusk. But if anything, this made our night-time meeting with the leopard and impala outside our tent even more special, bringing home to us the rewards of staying at camps where there are no fences, distractions or even electricity.

By day we mixed game drives with walks through the bush under the protection of our guide Esau for the time we spent in Ruaha. He taught us about bush safety: stay attentive and at a distance from the wildlife, and always stand still if you see an animal approaching you. We spotted only plant-eating animals – elephant, zebra and a pair of giraffes – but we all listened carefully to his repeated message to 'remember that you will see less than one per cent of what sees you'.

Our final hop was over to Zanzibar where we sailed out to a sandbank, swam through bright yellow and pink-and-blue fish and watched a crimson sun set. And we concluded that if there is one family holiday that will have undying teen appeal, it is a safari.

line 51

- 1 How did the family feel when they were sitting round the camp-fire?
 - A interested in the stories of the other campers
 - B proud of what they had seen earlier
 - C sorry they had disturbed the leopard
 - D annoyed they didn't know what happened in the end
- 2 Why did the writer and his wife decide to choose a safari holiday in Africa?
 - A They didn't want to be with other families.
 - B They wanted their children to learn some independence.
 - C They wanted to do something different from usual.
 - D They were advised that teenagers often enjoy safaris.
- 3 What does the writer say about Mount Kilimanjaro?
 - A They were hardly ever able to see the top of it.
 - B They would have preferred to camp higher up it.
 - C They were surprised at how cold it must be at the top.
 - D They realised how difficult it would be to climb to the top.
- 4 What does the writer mean by 'his story seeped out by degrees'?
 - A He answered their questions but said no more.
 - B He didn't tell them everything about himself all at once.
 - C He told them only the most interesting parts of his life story.
 - D He had a story to tell about every place they stopped.
- 5 They chose the Mdonya Old River Camp because
 - A there was water nearby.
 - B it wasn't easy to get to.
 - C the tents were of good quality.
 - D it was fairly basic.
- 6 'this' in line 51 refers to
 - A the dusk
 - B a rule
 - C their disappointment
 - D a plan

- 7 What did Esau warn them about?
 - A There were many more animals than they could actually see.
 - B They should move slowly if an animal came towards them.
 - C They shouldn't go into the bush alone on foot.
 - D Some animals were more dangerous than others.
- 8 Which of the following describes how the writer felt about the holiday?
 - A unsure whether they would come back again
 - B frustrated they hadn't seen more animals
 - C relieved they hadn't been attacked
 - D satisfied the children had enjoyed it

Adding detail

1 Read some sentences from an essay a student wrote about her grandparents, kitchen. Then match them to the type of detail they provide (A–F).

- 1 I always associate the kitchen with my grandmother.
- 2 The house was built in 1910 and the kitchen was extended in the 1970s.
- 3 My grandfather prefers to eat in the dining room because the chairs are more comfortable but my grandmother thinks it's too formal in there.
- 4 There are usually some flowers from the garden on the table and the smell of something wonderful cooking in the ancient oven.
- 5 It's difficult to choose my favourite dish but most people agree that my grandmother's fruit cake is delicious.
- 6 She's a very generous person; she makes jam for all her neighbours and gives them cherries and strawberries from her garden.

Type of detail

- A providing a description
- B making a comparison
- C giving an opinion
- D giving an example
- E providing facts
- F describing feelings

All over the flat there are photographs I've taken of (4) countries I've visited; in here they're (5) of New Zealand – and I keep my travelling hat and my travelling bag hanging here to make me (6) that I could pack up and leave at any (7) I can't, but it's nice to (8)

If I'm doing serious writing I (9) to be in here at night with the low energy bulb and the music, typing on a laptop because I don't have a desk and have no (10) for one. When I injured my back I used to try writing propped up on a sofa with lots of cushions and pillows, but that never really worked, so I finally saved up and bought the monster black leather chair. I try not to (11) anyone else sit in it, because they usually (12) to get out again – it's just too comfortable.

Unit 15 Fiesta!

Grammar

Passives

- 1 Complete the newspaper article below by putting the verbs in brackets into the correct form of the passive.

Join us at the Festival of Dance

A dance festival (1) has been held (hold) in our town every summer since 2000. It (2) (organise) every year by three local schools and each child (3) (give) the opportunity to take part in a performance, competition or street parade.

This year's festival will take place on 15 July and will be bigger than ever because £3,000 (4) (raise) for the prizes and there's more to come, we hope. Last year, 15 prizes of £100 (5) (award) but this year there will be at least 30 prizes. At last summer's festival, a local boy, Marcus Aston, (6) (choose) to go into a national competition. It (7) (hope) that other children (8) (offer) that chance this year.

At the end of the day, there will be a special performance by the City Schools Dance Troupe which (9) (form) in 2002 and has won many prizes. They can also (10) (see) later in the summer at the Victoria Hall and the Thames Festival.

Plans (11) (already make) for next year's festival so if you would like to help, please get in touch via the website (www.dancewithus.co.uk). If you would like your name (12) (add) to the mailing list, you can also do that on the website.

The passive with reporting verbs

- 2 Rewrite the newspaper headlines as sentences, using the verb in brackets. You will need to add some extra words.

1 PRIME MINISTER TO RESIGN TOMORROW

The Prime Minister is expected to resign tomorrow. (expect)

2 New Airport Runway Will Probably Be Built Next Year

Answering the question

1 Read the email below and the sentences A–H from different student answers. Which points do they answer? Put them in the correct column in the table.

Yes, explain

Suggest

Say which and why

No, because ...

- A Our school is quite small and we wanted to make sure we had a big audience. The performers brought all their friends with them so that was good.
- B You need to have music people can dance to and some music that the students' parents will recognise too, so a mixture is best.
- C It's difficult to know how much food to have or what people will eat so it's not a good idea to provide it.
- D If the weather is bad, people won't come if it's in the park or on the school field so it's better to be inside. It rained all day when we had our festival.
- E The most successful performances were the bands which had young people in them. You could have a bit of classical music too though as some people enjoy that.
- F You will probably need to sell drinks but it's very hard work to make food for everyone. You would need lots of people to help so I don't think it's a good idea to provide it.
- G In summer, it's nice to be in the fresh air and also you will have more space for dancing so we preferred to be outside.
- H We decided we wanted a wide variety of music so we invited people of different ages to perform. You could ask the relatives of the students at your school.

2 Now write a letter using four of the sentences on the left or your own if you prefer. Here is a beginning and ending to use.

Dear Beth

Festivals around the world

A Festival of Candelaria

The festival which takes place in Puno each year is one of the largest, longest and most extravagant celebrations in fiesta-mad Peru. Considerable numbers of Peruvian visitors come to town, but relatively few foreign tourists brave the rainy season and the altitude (12,565 feet) to see the event. Last year, so many local dance clubs were competing that the contest, in Puno's soccer stadium, was spread over two weekends instead of one as in the past.

There is nothing casual about these competitions. Groups must have precise numbers of participants, depending on the dance, and perform for exactly eight minutes in front of a packed stadium of transfixed spectators. After competing, many groups just keep on dancing in the narrow streets of the town.

B The Edinburgh Festival

Late summer is the only period in the calendar when the cultural focus of Great Britain really shifts away from London to Scotland.

For those four weeks, television crews normally based in London send their researchers searching frantically for stories and celebrities in Edinburgh.

What draws the attention of the international arts world is the extraordinary cultural mix that is the Edinburgh Festival. The scale and range of its ingredients make it unique. Hundreds of events are free, many take place in the street and the festival has always recognised the vital need to involve people with no money and little experience of the arts.

C Chinese New Year

I joined in the New Year celebrations in Pingyao, a beautiful and ancient walled city in central China. Western tourists are uncommon in Pingyao which receives about 1,000 Chinese tourists every week. Dumplings were being made in a local hotel and I was invited to join in and demonstrate my skills over a hot oven. About 30 people surrounded me, cheering and photographing each misshaped dumpling I produced, and I began to feel like a contestant on a TV programme. Going against tradition, the lantern ceremony was this time on the first day rather than the last of the two-week celebration. A tunnel of fairy lights brought everyone into a large courtyard and the noise of the fireworks was incredible. Lion and dragon dancing was promised, but the lights failed and it didn't take place; the crowd, now very cold, headed for the exit.

D Notting Hill Carnival

West London comes alive to the sights, sounds and colour of the Caribbean on the last weekend in August. For weeks the community centres and homes hum with the sound of sewing machines as the final sequins and feathers are sewn on to elaborate costumes. Soon that quiet sound will be replaced by the beat of calypso and reggae music as the Notting Hill Carnival gets under way.

The event has come a long way since 1964 when the local Afro-Caribbean community took a small steel band procession onto the streets. In recent years more than two million people have taken to the streets of west London, making it second only to the Rio Carnival in size. The costumed parades form the backbone of Carnival, hoping to impress the judges with their interpretation of a chosen topic: aliens, the Wild West and a celebration of black hair are just a few of the storylines to look out for this year.

E The Moon Festival

'We've been working every day now for the last 60 days,' said Johnny Chan. 'We've made about three million mooncakes so far.' Mooncakes mean the Mid-Autumn Festival, or Moon Festival, which lasts for three days.

The Kee Wah bakery in Hong Kong makes dozens of different types of mooncakes. 'The Cantonese-style cakes have a shiny finish, and are filled with a lotus seed paste,' said Johnny Chan. 'In the northern regions, the cakes are less sweet and are often filled with nuts or even meat,' he added. But despite their central role in the Mid-Autumn festival, Mr Chan said that mooncake orders had declined over recent years. Part of the reason, he said, was that people think mooncakes are bad for them and prefer low-fat, low-sugar ones, but also the Moon Festival was becoming more commercialised and people focused more on the exchange of gifts.

Writing

1 Read this student's article for the competition and evaluate it using the checklist below.

A great invention

- Which invention couldn't you live without?
- Why is it so important?
- What would the world be like without this invention?

We will publish the most interesting articles in next month's edition.

A great invention

There have been a lot of great inventions which have affected all our lives. Some of them, such as a map, a ship and a gun have completely changed history. However, I'd say the computer is the most amazing invention; even more important than a car or a telephone.

Nowadays we can't manage without computers, not only at work but also at home. I can't even imagine our world without this 'clever machine'.

Computer plays essential role in office work because it can store huge amount of information. It can help you with your studies, correcting your grammar and training your language skills, for example.

But that's not all computers can do. I have found a lot of new friends thanks to the internet. You can also 'travel' around the world using internet to find out what is happening in a different countries.

I believe that other uses for computers will be discovered in the future. Computers have changed people's lifestyles forever. And they will affect everyone's life directly or indirectly.

2 There are some problems with the use of a, an and the in the article. Decide where these corrections should go. You need to use some of them more than once.

- Delete 'a'.
- Insert 'the'.
- Insert 'a' or use the plural form.
- Replace 'a' with 'the' or use the plural form.
- Insert 'an'.
