

Dr. Miguel Ginés. Mathematics degree from the University of Valencia in 1991, Ph.D. in Economics by the University of Alicante in 1996, under the supervision of F. Marhuenda. In 1996 I get two scholarships, a Marie Curie to go to the University of Bielefeld (Germany) and a grant from Ministry of Education to go to the University of Minnesota (USA). Finally I decided to spend two years in Minnesota from 1996-1998. There, I collaborated with Professor Timothy Kehoe. Later, I joined the department of Economics at University Jaume I of Castellon in 1998. Here, I started to collaborate with professors V. Orts and Nikolaos Georgantzís, joining the newborn Laboratori d'Economia Experimental. In 2001 I become Associate Professor of Economics at University Jaume I. I have participated in the creation of the Experimental Economics group and laboratory as well as in the creation of the laboratory and chair in Computational Economics. In 2013, I visited the University of Lausanne (Switzerland) collaborating with Professor Bettina Klaus.

My research areas are mainly framed in the Cooperative Game Theory, Bargaining and Bankruptcy problems, Social Choice and the Experimental Economy.
