SUMMARY

While it is necessary to understand the historical development from a perspective as broad as possible, an approach to the nearest history is also absolutely essential for understanding the present. From that point of view, this course is an approach to the history of Valencia from its insertion in the Western cultural sphere, but emphasizing its originality. Thus, the student will present an overview of the historical evolution of Valencia from the first settlers to the present, emphasizing the cultural, economic, political and social processes of greatest relevance.

TEACHING METHODOLOGYCLASSES:

In the classroom, the teacher will present and explain the fundamental elements that should guide the student in his/her study. The understanding of the subject matter will be through the use of appropriate means to do so (Lecture, projection images using Power Point presentations and / or videos, etc.)

PREPARATION OF THEORETICAL CLASSES:

It is essential that the student conduct, prior to the exposure of the teacher and to each subject, a reading of the manual or texts which previously indicated.

PREPARATION FOR PRACTICAL WORK:

The practical component aims to deep through various materials in those areas considered most important or significant about the issue. The materials will be provided by the teacher, and he/she will indicate, where appropriate, the most relevant preparation for the activity.

TUTORIALS:

Students may attend the hours of attention established by each teacher, if they want to consult on any topic or aspect related to the subject. Teachers promptly will inform their respective schedules of tutoring.

ADDITIONAL ACTIVITIES:

There will be additional activities through various materials in the areas considered most important or significant for the issue. The materials will be provided by the teacher and they also will indicate, where appropriate, the most relevant information for the activity.

This type of activity has the main objective of connecting the students with activities, undeveloped in the narrow field of the classes. They are common in the university academic life, such as conferences, monographic sessions on a particular aspect of history or their sources and methods, visits to archives or museums, etc. They must establish, from the beginning, a fundamental instrument for the socialization of academic life beyond the classroom, while they get used to debate, exchange of ideas, project its interests and knowledge off campus and, of course, to increase students' training.

EVALUATION

The evaluation of the course will be conducted by:

1. Continuous assessment tests, in which the level of knowledge will be assessed in accordance with the objectives of the subject explained until its completion (Unit 1 and 2). Correction of written expression is also assessed, both from the point of view of the use of terminology as well as the ability of reasoning, making relationships and synthesis.
2. The continuous assessment tests will account for 40% of the final grade for the course: test regarding Unit 1 will account 20% and test regarding Unit 2 will account 20%.
3. Final test, in which the level of knowledge will be assessed in accordance with the objectives not evaluated in the continuous assessment test (Units 3 and 4). Correction of written expression is also assessed, both from the point of view of the use of terminology as well as the ability of reasoning, making relationships and synthesis.
4. The written test will account for 50% of the final grade for the course: the question regarding Unit 3 will account 30% and the question regarding Unit 4 will account 20%.
5. Complementary Activities. Unit 5 will be evaluated through these activities. See annex at virtual classroom.
6. Complementary activities will account for 10% of the final grade for the course.

In summary:

Continuous assessment tests (There is no second call)	40%: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - 20%: test Unit 1 - 20%: test Unit 2
Final test	50%: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - 30 %: Question regarding Unit 3 - 20 %: Question regarding Unit 4

Complementary Activities (There is no second call)	10%
TOTAL	100%

To pass the course is required to obtain a minimum score on the written test of 4 points on the scale of 10. If this score is not achieved, the scores of other activities will not be included in the final grade.

The second call corresponds to an extraordinary examination of the final test, taking into that this second examination comprises the whole matter and not a single part (although the student has passed a number of questions in the first round).

Also they are taken into account the grades obtained during the course on the sideline. These ratings only remain in effect during the academic year.

Excepting Erasmus students, grammar and spelling mistakes will score negatively on the qualification of all written tests and academic works. Their accumulation may lead to a failing grade in the course.
