SUMMARY

The study of the subject SECTORIAL REGULATION OF TOURISM lies within the module of TOURISM LAW I as part of the programme structure of the University of Valencia's Degree in Tourism.

This module is integrated by the subject SECTORIAL REGULATION OF TOURISM, which is taught during the first quarter of the third year with a workload of 6 ECTS credits and by the subject CONTRACTING IN THE TOURISM SECTOR, which will be taught in the first quarter of the fourth year.

The Departments of Commercial Law and Procedural and Administrative Law (Area of Administrative Law) share the course on SECTORIAL REGULATION OF TOURISM.

The teaching of the course contents assigned to the Department of Commercial Law will take place during the first five weeks of the semester. The area of Administrative Law of the Department of Procedural and Administrative Law will be in charge of teaching weeks six to fifteen of the course, according to the official calendar of the centre.

Both areas have developed a teaching programme that gathers the essential contents in order to gain knowledge of a sector of the economic activity that is tightly regulated in both its public and private legal relationships. In the course, the basic institutions of this area are studied.

The objective is for the student to acquire the necessary knowledge of Administrative and Commercial Law to be able to understand how the different sectors influencing Tourism Law work. The student must know and handle the legal regime of this area of activity.

TEACHING METHODOLOGY

Exhibition of theoretical contents: The professor will present and explain the fundamental theoretical content to guide the student in their study and understanding of the subject. The student, for their part, must actively engage in learning by reading the lesson and any supplementary materials established in the course plan.

Activities applied: Consist of commenting on rulings, opinions, and proposed practical cases, deploying the established skills and complementing the presentation of theoretical content, according to what has been established by the professor. In each case, the professor will indicate which ones will be assessed.

Complementary activities: Some complementary activity, if any, will be scheduled, consisting of a workshop, seminar, or other activity related to the subject. These activities will be planned based on the availability of human and time resources, ensuring that they are interdisciplinary in nature, either with groups from the same or other subjects. Activities may be held at centers other than the University of Valencia.

EVALUATION

The final grade will be obtained from the sum of two blocks: the continuous assessment of learning and participation in the proposed activities, on the one hand (30% of the grade); and the completion of a final theoretical-practical test equivalent to 70% of the final grade. The continuous assessment activities (directed or complementary) will not be recoverable in second call.

The final test may be oral or written at the professor's discretion (indicated in the annex to your teaching guide).

Regardless of the general evaluation system (written or oral), the professor can determine in the annex the possibility of changing the examination system when he or she is forced to perform the test on a different date to the official one, in application of the rules provided for the case of a clash in the dates and times of examinations in the Regulation of evaluation and qualification of the University of Valencia.

1. Evaluable activities. Each professor will determine in their annex to the Teaching Guide the composition of the activities, directed or complementary. The continuous assessment will be evaluated through the development of applied activities, exercises or projects, that could be presented in class, and attendance to other activities. The weight of this part will be 30% of the final grade.

The activities that form part of the process of continuous assessment (whether they are complimentary activities or course work) may not be retaken in the second sitting of the exam when, due to their characteristics, it would be impossible to design a test that would evaluate the acquisition of the abilities taught. This circumstance shall be determined in the annex to the study guide, which shall also specify the complimentary activities and course work to be completed.

2. The final test will consist of an oral or written examination, which will be determined by each professor in the annex to the Teaching Guide.

Final written theoretical-practical exam. In the case of a written exam, it will have a maximum duration of two hours, in which there will be a 70:30 ratio of theoretical and practical questions. The professor will determine whether legal texts can be used for the practical part of the exercise. The total weight of the final test will be 70% of the overall score (continuous assessment plus final test).

In the first call the final grade will be the result of the grade obtained in the final test and in the continuous assessment according to the percentages previously indicated. In second call the grade obtained in the continuous assessment will be maintained. In any case it will be necessary to pass the final test to pass the course.

Even if the continuous assessment has been followed, totally or partially, if the student does not show up for the final evaluation test, the grade that will be included in the record will be NOT SHOWN UP. Exceptionally, if the student requests it, and in view of the circumstances of the specific case, it may be qualified with a FAIL, with the percentage mark resulting from the continuous assessment.
