There are no specified enrollment restrictions with other subjects of the curriculum.

OTHER REQUIREMENTS

COMPETENCES / LEARNING OUTCOMES

1000 - Degree in English Studies

Apply ICT and computer programs, either locally or through a network, in the field of English Studies.

Demonstrate communicative and social competence in the English language (oral and written comprehension and expression, communicative interaction and mediation that includes correct grammar and style).

Design and manage projects in language and literature in the academic and professional fields.

Students must be able to apply their knowledge to their work or vocation in a professional manner and have acquired the competences required for the preparation and defence of arguments and for problem solving in their field of study.

Students must be able to communicate information, ideas, problems and solutions to both expert and lay audiences.

Students must have the ability to gather and interpret relevant data (usually in their field of study) to make judgements that take relevant social, scientific or ethical issues into consideration.

Work and learn autonomously, and plan and manage ones workload.

Work in a team in contexts related to English Studies and develop interpersonal relationships.

DESCRIPTION OF CONTENTS

1. Introduction to literary and audiovisual translation

2. Analysis and translation of literary texts: detecting and solving translation problems involving linguistic variation (register, dialects, chronolects), cultural elements, humour, ideology, tone and style

3. Analysis and translation of audiovisual texts: priorities and specific constraints in dubbing and subtitling: interaction of image and sound with words; synchronization.

4. Basics of criticism and assessment of literary and audiovisual translation: initial analysis of the target text; pre-translation analysis of the source text for identification of stylistic profile and translation problems; comparative analysis of target text, from micro-textual elements to overall decisions

6. Translating dialogue for performance: the theatrical translations by the Instituto Shakespeare de la Universidad de Valencia

7. Introduction to professional aspects of creative translation: conventions in dubbing scripts, agencies, associations, tools.

8. Specific strategies for verse translation.

TEACHING METHODOLOGY

Theory-based classes: lectures and case studies.

Lectures will focus on clarification and discussion of key concepts and techniques rather than on exposition of matter students can find in the dossiers and bibliography. Consequently students are expected to work on assigned tasks (reading sections from course dossiers, answering questions set in advance) before attending class.

Practical classes: problem solving and case studies.

Other activities: tutorials for orientation in preparing papers and projects.

EVALUATION

The assessment for both the first and second calls will be carried out through the following procedures:

A- A commented literary translation project (40%)

B- Practical test: a piece of criticism of an audiovisual translation (40%)

C- Activities carried out during the teaching period:

1) Translation tasks in Aula Virtual/In-class participation (10%)

2) Test on translating verse and drama (10%)

To pass the subject students need to get at least 50% in activities A and B. Marks above 50% obtained in the first call in all the activities will be carried forward to the second call. Activities carried out during the teaching period will not be repeated in the second call.

The ability to communicate at the C1+ (CEFR level) is required to pass the course as a whole. Students whose communication (written and/or oral) displays errors that are not consistent with the above level will fail the module regardless of their performance related to the course contents.

Plagiarism will not be tolerated; it is a serious academic offence. Any student who is found to have plagiarised his/her work will fail the whole subject.

Intellectual honesty is vital to an academic community and for the fair evaluation of the student's work. All work submitted in this course must be originally authored by every student. No student shall engage in unauthorized collaboration or make use of ChatGPT or other AI composition software.
