SUMMARY

This is a compulsory course, included in the subject History of Contemporary Literature. The course is based on what has been studied previously, in an introductory way, in Contemporary Catalan Literature. The study of the poetic genre is carried out by means of a historical survey, during the contemporary period, based on six authors and six representative works, one of each. This generic perspective will be complemented in literature as a whole with the other two subjects that make up the subject, devoted to theatre and narrative, respectively. narrative, respectively.

The basic objectives of the course are as follows:

-To understand the evolution of poetry in the Catalan language during the contemporary period.

-To know in a more exhaustive way the poetic production of six essential and representative poets who illustrate the contemporary period.

- Analyse six works of poetry representative of this period and of the different existing aesthetics.
- Comment on and interpret texts from these works.
- Relate contemporary Catalan literature to other literatures and cultures of the Western world.
- Develop the students' basic strategies for dealing with bibliographical management and the analysis of texts.
- The student will be able to analyse literary texts in an autonomous manner.

TEACHING METHODOLOGY

In terms of classroom hours, the course is structured into sessions

Theoretical-practical sessions every week in the classroom (two sessions of two hours), aimed at reviewing the evolution of the genre literary.

The lectures will be devoted to reviewing the evolution of the genre in the period, to the study of six authors and to the analysis of six works. The teacher will provide the students with a work. The teacher will provide students with a work dossier and bibliographical recommendations.

The practical activities throughout the semester will be:

- Follow-up and reading control of the six works of poetry.
- Practical commentary on texts of the compulsory reading works.

c) Monitoring of critical readings of the works.

Compulsory readings of works of poetry:

a) Els fruits saborosos, by Josep Carner, Edicions 62.

b) Gertrudis, by J.V. Foix, Quaderns Crema.

c) Elegies de Bierville, by Carles Riba, Edicions 62.

d) El caminant i el mur, by Salvador Espriu, Edicions 62.

e) Domini màgic, by Joan Vinyoli, in Poesia completa, La butxaca, Edicions Empuries.

f) Selection of Joan Brossa's visual poems.

Compulsory critical readings: two monographs from the complementary references section, set by the teacher.

Voluntary critical readings: Three monographs from the complementary references section, set by the teacher.

The teacher, both in class and in the tutorials, will guide and supervise the revision and monitoring of the six works of compulsory reading, and will provide guidance on the analysis of the texts of these reading works, and on the specific bibliography to be consulted.

With regard to non-classroom hours, students will devote them to:

a) study and preparation of theoretical and practical classes,

b) preparation of lectures and course activities,

c) preparation of the final written test.

The teacher and the students will use the Virtual Classroom and email as a means of communicating changes, details about the practicals, etc. However, it is recommended that students attend face-to-face tutorials the authors of the course.

Within the framework of the cycle Les autors i els autors a les aules, it will be possible to organise sessions with guest speakers. At the beginning of the teaching period of the course, information will be provided on the possible complementary activities to be organised and the activities that will be organised and the impact they may have on teaching and assessment.

Intellectual honesty is vital in academic communities and for the fair evaluation of the student's work. All work submitted in this course must be of original authorship. Submissions that involve fraudulent collaboration or composition with the aid of artificial intelligence (ChatGPT or others) will not be accepted, unless their use is part of the course content and is authorized by the lecturer.

EVALUATION

The assessment of student learning will be carried out on the basis of two elements:

a) The activities carried out (lecture follow-ups, text commentaries and critical readings) during the course of the assignment. This part will constitute up to 30% of the mark. In this part attendance and active participation in classes and attendance at tutorials in which monitoring will be supervised. will be supervised. Practical activities, by their very nature, are taken during the four-month period and are not recoverable in the second sitting.

b) A final test that will assess theoretical and practical knowledge, as well as the acquisition of general and specific competences. This part will constitute 70% of the mark. This test consists of:

-Questions relating to the history of the contemporary poetic genre and of the leading authors.

-Questions related to the works being studied.

To pass the course you will need to obtain a minimum of 3.5 (out of 7 points) in the final exam; and, in addition, you must have completed the compulsory practical activities.

In accordance with the criteria agreed by the Council of the Department of Catalan Language and Literature, failure to comply with the regulations will result in a failing grade, regardless of the grade for the content.

The grading system follows the regulations of the University of Valencia approved by the Consell de Govern on May 30, 2017. ACGUV 108/2017.

Summary of the assessment:

a) Practical activities: 30 %
