SUMMARY

English Language 4 is a compulsory second-year (second semester) subject that forms part of the English Language and Linguistics module and the English Language sub-module within the English Studies degree programme at the Universitat de València (approved in 2010). It is also included in the Translation and Interlinguistic Mediation programme and the English Studies minor within the degree programmes in Modern Languages and Literatures, Catalan Language and Literature, Hispanic Studies, and Classics.

Within the English Studies degree, this subject is related to the series English Language 1-8, as well as other subjects within the English Linguistics sub-module, such as English Phonology, History of the English Language, English Morphology and Lexis, English Syntax, and Second Language Acquisition.

The aim of the course is to develop students' communicative competence in English (listening comprehension, oral expression, communicative interaction, and mediation) to different proficiency levels depending on the programme:

- B2+ level for the minor programmes,
- C1 level for the Translation and Interlinguistic Mediation programme, and
- C1- level for the English Studies degree programme.

In addition, this course introduces students to the field of pragmatics and its fundamental concepts. An overview of the most relevant theories will be provided, from Grice's Cooperative Principle to recent developments in cross-cultural pragmatics. Through practical examples and activities, students will gain an understanding of the importance of considering language in context and how the meaning of utterances can vary depending on context and interaction.

The course also promotes autonomous learning, self-assessment, and remedial work with the lecturer to support students' individual progress.

Throughout the course, students are encouraged to apply inclusive, non-sexist academic language and to reflect on ethical and social responsibility in their written assignments, fostering alignment with Sustainable Development Goal 5 (Gender Equality). In addition, specific course content will address issues related to environmental awareness and sustainability, contributing to Sustainable Development Goal 13 (Climate Action).

TEACHING METHODOLOGY

In order for students to achieve the required level of English and to develop the additional competences specified in this syllabus, the following methodological approaches will be implemented:

- The teacher will formally present key concepts and will also guide, facilitate, organise, monitor, coordinate, correct, and assess students' work and progress.
- The teacher will promote student-centred learning through some or all of the following activities: individual work, pair work, group work, problem-solving, project work, and task-based learning.

Autonomous and/or group learning, both inside and outside the classroom, including computer-based activities, will be encouraged to foster students' responsibility for their own learning. Additionally, throughout the course, activities and materials will promote reflection on environmental awareness and sustainability, contributing to students' alignment with Sustainable Development Goal 13 (Climate Action).

EVALUATION

The general grading system will follow the regulations of the University of Valencia approved by the Governing Council on May 30th, 2017. ACGUV 108/2017.

Assessment breakdown for first and second call.

Type of assessment % of final grade:

- A) Individual final examination that includes a listening test and a Use of English test. 50% [Listening ¿ 20%; Use of English ¿ 30%]
- B) Final oral exam 30%
- C) In-class activities carried out during the course 20%

To pass the subject students need to get at least 50% as an average in parts A, B and C. Students must also get 50% in each section of part A and 50% in part B. The mark of part C (20%) will be carried over to the second call. These activities (part C) can only be done during the course and cannot be handed in for the second call. The mark for these activities (part C) is only counted if the student passes parts A and B. If a student fails one part of the examination, he/she would need to take all the parts again.

Assessment Criteria

Students will need to show that they have grasped the concepts introduced by their lecturer(s). They will also have to demonstrate that they have learnt the lexical, grammatical and functional items to be used in the multiple contexts seen in class.

Students will also need to show that they have attained a B2+/C1-/C1 competence level in English (B2+ for minor programmes/C1- for the Degree in English/C1 for the Degree in Translation and Interlinguistic Mediation) and that they have acquired a satisfactory level in the other specific competences.

In the practical tasks and the written assignments, correct spelling and grammar will be required. Each spelling, punctuation, or expression mistake will result in a reduction of the grade obtained, which may lead to failing the assignment.

Having another person or company do the writing of an assignment for you, which includes using artificial intelligence tools like ChatGPT, is considered plagiarism, thus a violation of academic integrity. It will automatically lead to a failing grade and instructors reserve the right to conduct an investigation and reassess students who are suspected of having resorted to any sort of plagiarism in their work.
