TEACHING METHODOLOGY

In-person sessions. These consist of a presentation of the corresponding theoretical topic. This is a lecture model that allows the instructor to present the most relevant aspects of each topic. Participation will be encouraged as knowledge is shared. Furthermore, in these in-person sessions, students who have independently worked on various theoretical and practical aspects related to the topics studied will be able to present and present their work in class. Also in these in-person sessions, students will be able to participate in activities related to their internships and Master's thesis.

Online sessions. These sessions aim to encourage students to build their knowledge. The goal is to guide students in activities geared toward their own learning. The activity may consist of searching for specialized documentary information, conducting a verified and justified reflection on a specific topic, or applying their knowledge from class.

Tutorials. Students have access to a wide range of tutoring hours during which the professor guides them individually or in small groups in building their knowledge. They guide them in completing assignments and resolve any doubts or difficulties related to the subject matter. The Virtual Classroom forum is also available for questions. In this virtual space, students can find documents, information, and relevant news about the subjects in the different modules.

In addition to these learning methods, 'Complementary Activities' will be offered to complement student training with lectures, expert panels, seminars-workshops, visits, and a film forum.

EVALUATION

Process assessment: The knowledge, skills, and competencies acquired will be assessed continuously through the student's participation in individual and group training activities for the module's subjects. They will complete exercises, comment on texts, and complete practical cases related to the contents of this module.

Performance assessment: In addition to the ongoing assessment of the student's theoretical and practical work in the different subjects of the module, at the end of the module, the student will take a performance test based on the level of skills or learning acquired.

In cases of fraudulent practices, action will be taken according to the Protocol for Action against Fraudulent Practices at the University of Valencia (ACGUV 123/2020): <https://www.uv.es/sgeneral/Protocols/C83sp.pdf>

As established in Article 13. d) of the 'University Student Statute' (RD 1791/2010, of 30 December), students must refrain from using or cooperating in the use of fraudulent procedures in assessment tests, in the work carried out or in official university documents. The teaching staff will check with the means available to the Universitat de València if plagiarism or total or partial copying has taken place. If it is detected, the student will be suspended from the subject and the disciplinary measures established in the current regulations will be initiated.

The qualification of the subject will be subject to the provisions of the Regulation of Evaluation and Qualification of the Universitat de València for Bachelor's and Master's degrees (ACGUV 108/2017 of 30 May 2017). http://www.uv.es/graus/normatives/2017_108_reglament_avaluacio_qualificacio.pdf

The use of AI or other technological supports in the different works must be duly justified and explained in the corresponding annex, the use of such tools without the inclusion of such explanation will result in the failure of the activity in question.
