TEACHING METHODOLOGY

Theoretical contents will be combined with exercises and practical cases: and students will deliver on various tasks as detailed in the course. Students will use the available resources (blackboard, transparencies, computer, etc.) that are considered most appropriate.

Classes will generally combine the methodology of the lecture with the approach of problems and practices. Lecturers will highlight the fundamental aspects of each topic and guide study through the materials available to students. Practices will consist of examining economic and legal questions, as well as the resolution of questions of general interest raised by the teaching materials, problems, and recommended exercises.

The available teaching material can be accessed from the virtual classroom, <http://aulavirtual.uv.es>

EVALUATION

The subject will be evaluated using tests and observation techniques.

The test will consist of a final exam that will evaluate the results of the learning. This test will provide 70% of the mark of the subject. A mark of 5 out of 10 must be exceeded in this written test so that the rest of the mark can be added.

Observation techniques will consist in monitoring the participation of students in the learning process and will represent 30% of the mark. Evaluation will focus on a student's ability to work in a team, argue and defend ideas, participate in the development of classes, and deliver the tasks that the lecturer assigns. These tasks will normally be resolved at home and corrected in class – and must be delivered on time.
