SUMMARY

The Applied Legislation course is a compulsory three-credit course taught in the first four-month period of the Master's in Cultural Management. Given that the majority of Master's students lack legal training, this theoretical-practical course aims to introduce students to the basic legal issues that can be encountered in the specific field of arts and culture management. The aim of the course is not to train legal specialists in cultural management, but rather to ensure that students, future cultural managers, have a general vision of the legal problems that they will have to face in their daily work as such. This knowledge and skills should enable them to deal with these problems and make the appropriate decisions, after requiring, where appropriate, specialized legal advice.
