Index to Cities 97
INTRODUCTION

The second reprinting - in 2006 - of RPC I has been the occasion to publish also this second Supplement to RPC. The first Supplement was published in 1998 and covered much new material that had appeared for the Julio-Claudian period between the date of the first publication of RPC I in 1992 and 1997. This new Supplement includes new material from 1998 to about 2005, and covers the Flavian period (RPC II) as well as the Julio-Claudian period. In due course there will be a third Supplement!

The material has been arranged in two sequential parts, the first covering RPC I and the second covering RPC II.

Index 1, Cities, is again brought up to date and is a consolidated Index for the cities represented in RPC I-II, the first Supplement and the second Supplement.

The decision to publish the second Supplement on-line rather than as a book has been taken for three reasons: first of all, it is easier; second it improves access for scholars, collectors, museum curators and other users; and thirdly, an electronic version is easier to search. We do not claim any copyright over the text or pictures used here, and we would be happy for any scholar or collector to use them for his or her own personal or academic purpose.

We are very grateful to the University of Valencia for hosting the publication. The URL is http://www.uv.es/~ripolles/rpc_s2

At the time of writing, we can give the following progress report on the series as a whole. RPC VII.1 covering the coinage of Gordian I-Gordian III (AD 238-44) from the province of Asia has just been published by M. Spoerri Butcher. Work is well advanced on RPC 3 (Nerva-Hadrian) by Michel Amandry and Andrew Burnett, as is also the case for RPC IV (The Antonines) by C. Howgego and V. Heuchert. The material for RPC IV can now be found on-line: http://rpc.ashmus.ox.ac.uk. E. Levante has collected an enormous amount of material covering RPC VII.2-IX, and we hope in due course that we will be able to work with him in publishing it. William Metcalf continues to collect material for RPC X (Aemilian-Diocletian).

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

We would like to express our warm thanks to the following scholars and collectors for correcting mistakes and giving us new information:

We apologise if we have inadvertently omitted anyone.

GENERAL INTRODUCTION

Part of the Hunterian collection of provincial coins has also now been published by J. Goddard, SNG XII. The Hunterian Museum, University of Glasgow. Part I: Roman Provincial Coins, Spain-Kingdoms of Asia Minor (London, 2004). A very interesting touch is the inclusion in the list of the mints of all the mints within their respective province or conventus, rather than just those in the Hunterian.

On the question of authority, see now P. Weiss, ‘Ευγέρσεις ή Ρωμαϊκή Προσέγγιση? Αιτηματική Φόρμα και Προσωπικές Αναπτύξεις στον Αναπαραγωγικό Τομέα των Σελίδων της Πόλης’, Chiron 30 (2000), pp. 236-54; the same author has returned to a similar subject in ‘The Cities and their Money’ in the Oxford conference cited below, pp. 57-68.

Many individual matters and general considerations are raised by the authors of the papers, originally given at a conference at Oxford, in Coinage and Identity in the Roman Provinces, eds. C. Howgego, V. Heuchert, A. Burnett (Oxford, 2005). Mention should also be made of two other conferences, which focus on the geographical areas of Syria and Egypt, but which give a good sense of continuity and change from before and after the early imperial period. The first was organised in Damascus 1999 and has led to the publication of Les Monnayages Syriens. Quel apport pour l’histoire du Proche-Orient hellénistique et romain?, eds. C. Augé, F. Duyrat (Beirut, Institut Français d’Archéologie du Proche Orient, Bibliothèque Archéologique et Historique, Tome 162, 2002). The second was organised in Alexandria in 2002 has now been published as L’exception égyptienne? Production et échanges monétaires en Égypte hellénistique et romaine, Actes du Colloque à Alexandrie 13-15 Avril 2002, eds. F. Duyrat, O. Picard, (Alexandria, Études alexandrines Tome 10, 2005). Finally, a general account of ‘Latin on coins of the western empire’ was published by A. Burnett in the conference proceedings Becoming Roman, Writing Latin? ed. A.E. Cooley (Journal of Roman Archaeology Supplementary Series Volume 48, 2002), pp. 33-40.

Although it is not appropriate to refer here to more specific studies, mention should be made of the long-awaited publication of K. Butcher, Coinage in Roman Syria: northern Syria, 64 BC - AD 253 (London, 2004) [abbreviation: Butcher, CRS]. Although the book focuses on Syria and Antioch, it throws light on many broader aspects of provincial coinage, and the relationship of provincial mints to Rome.

The forthcoming new edition of RIC II (Part 1: the Flavians), being prepared by I. Carradice and T. Buttrey, will provide updated catalogue information and discussion on the following series included in RPC: Latin coins from Thrace (501-543); Asia, aurei and denarii (801-858) and cistophori (859-875); Denarii with O (1451-1469); Orichalcum coins of 77/8 (1470-1488); Syrian aurei and denarii (1901-1935); Antioch orichalcum (1982-2005).

Uncertain mint (NW?)

1/2. Cores coll., 38.19 (= Baldwin, MM, Vecchi, New York Sale Auction 2, 2/12/1999, lot 140). The legend is IMP AVG DIVI F and the palm is somewhat effaced. Although RPC I/1 is very worn it seems that both coins were struck with the same obv. and rev. dies.

4/56-59. IVDJ 3503-3506, 12.10 (cmk: Ω on the obv.), 10.57, 10.65 (cmk: ẞ on the obv.), 10.44; 60. M. León 251, 10.94 (cmk: ẞ on the obv.); 61. Álvarez coll., (= Saguntum 19, 1985, lám. IV-34), 10.84 (cmk: Ω on the obv.).

1. Barcelona trade, 2.6. Not seen, verification needed. The rev. legend seems clearly tooled. A forgery or just a tooled coin?

S2-1-10a AE. 30 mm. 17.07 g (1). Axis: 6 (1). [0] PERMISSV CAESARIS AVGVSTI; facing head; in front amphora pouring; all within wreath. AVGVSTA / EMERITA; priest ploughing, l.

1. Ba 09787, 17.07. The coin seems genuine; according to its weight and size it must be a dupondius.

13/34-36. IVDJ 3398-3400, 7.10, 12.18, 9.41; 37. Cores coll., 10.50 (cmk: ♚ on the obv.).

14/5. One more, IVDJ 3403, 5.48 (E-M / A-V, instead of A-V / E-M).

15/3. Cores coll., 4.7 (on the rev. EMER L[E] V X), the reading AVG on the rev. is wrong.

17/5. Cores coll., 5.7.

43/4. IVDJ 3479, 17.52, with obv. legend [AVG PONT MAX]; 5. CNG 14/6/2000, lot 1063, 12.16, a variant with obv. legend TI CAESAR AVG PON MAX IMP; 6. Berna (= SNG II, 21), 12.69, obv. legend [TI CAESAR AVG PONT MAX IMP].

46. As we have pointed out, coin Vives 146-7 is the result of joining the obv. of IVDJ 3484, 10.26 (= S de C 320) with the rev. of another coin still not identified, nevertheless the type as described in RPC exists; the legends are: TI [CAESAR AVGVS] P[ON MAX IMP; PERMI AVG PROVI[ENT]].

47/10. IVDJ 3494 (AETERNITATI AVGVSTAE, without C A E), 13.88.

49/6. IVDJ 3495, 7.38 (rev. legend CAE inverted); 7. IVDJ 3496, 5.68. Coin RPC 49/5 also has the rev. letters of the legend inverted.

Imperatoria Salacia

L. Amela, R. P. Arg. 7.2, 2004, 245-250 and A. M. Faria, R. P. Arg. 9.2, 2006, pp. 228-230 have published new discussions about this mint. The first denies that this issue and the name Imperatoria Salacia are related to Sextus Pompeius; whereas, the second agrees with the absence of evidence about Sextus Pompeius as the founder, but points out that he gave the epithet Imperatoria; Faria also maintains that Salacia received the Latin statute between 27 and 15-12 BC and thereafter became a municipium, perhaps past 5/4 BC.

S-51A. There are two groups of rev. with the legend between or without lines (A. M. Faria, R. P. Arg. 2.1, 1999, p. 268); 16. Herrero 13/2/2003, lot 161, 12.64 (with lines); 17. Baesuri

A. M. Faria, R. P. Arg. 9.2, 2006, p. 217) has published new comments about this mint.
S-53A/3. Barcelona trade, 7.0 [M]ANT ET [J]ONL (struck over a coin of Osset, RPC 58. It is amazing that the three known specimens are all overstruck). Found in Alcolea del Río. This coin reinforces the possibility of this issue having been struck during Augustus’ reign.

The obv. legend is M AN AN ET CONL as it can be deduced from both this and the M 6365 specimens (= RPC S-53A/2) [see below]. We agree with C. Castillo, Vestigia Antiquitatis: escritos de epigrafía y literatura romanas, Pamplona, 1997, p. 5, n. 7, DCPH II, p. 50 and A. M. Faria, R. P. Arq. 9.2, 2006, p. 217 that a personal name could be identified in the first part of the legend.

Aureo 5/3/2003, lot 1033, 4.63, has auctioned a lead piece with types of Baesuri.

Laelia

The arrangement of the Laelia issues struck post 44 BC, as stated in RPC (vol. I and Suppl. I), is still far from certain, since type CNH 380/8, could also belong to this period and RPC S-54A (= CNH 379/4) be earlier. The order of Laelia issues proposed by CNH pp. 379-380 and DCPH II, 262 is more likely.

Laelia

The arrangement of the Laelia issues struck post 44 BC, as stated in RPC (vol. I and Suppl. I), is still far from certain, since type CNH 380/8, could also belong to this period and RPC S-54A (= CNH 379/4) be earlier. The order of Laelia issues proposed by CNH pp. 379-380 and DCPH II, 262 is more likely.

Irippo

Hybrid or Irippo

S2-I-56A

AE. 22 mm, 4.45 g (1). Axis: 3 (1) [0] [-]RI[PP]--; female head, r. Female figure seated l, holding cornucopia and pine-cone.

1. M. Blanco and J. A. Sáez, GN 138, 2000, pp. 33-40, 4.45. The authors have proposed that this is a hybrid coin with an Orippo obv., and an Irippo rev., in view of the similarity of the style of the female head with that used in the latest Orippo issues. However, we prefer to think that the legend should be restored as [I]RIPP[O] and that what is unusual is the female head, probably copied from a coin minted by Oriippo (CNH, 394, no. 4-7) on which the legend is always on the rev.

1. Giessener 11/10/1999, lot 667, 20.06. It is very strange that this coin does not mention the name of the mint; in addition, the rev. legend is unique in Roman Spanish cities and belongs to Colonia Romula (RPC 73). There seems to be a problem with the Latin of the obverse. Not seen and confirmation needed: it may be a tooled or false coin.

The coin auctioned by CNG 57, 4/4/2001, lot 768, and labelled as a ‘rare representation of a fisherman’ and ‘apparently unrecorded’ is in fact a known coin minted by C. Mini(us) IV C. Vibi(us) it IIIIvir (CNH, p. 418, no. 52; Chaves, 1979, no. 788-791; L. Amelia, Gac. Num. 156, 2005, pp. 3-16). It has been dated by Chaves in 55 BC, and because of this it was excluded from RPC.

113/41. The Hunter coin, M. 3, 662, 15 (pl. 98.23) (= SNG Glasgow 31), 4.82g., not cited in RPC, has rev. with C F rather than C F.

Ilici

Several papers have been published in recent years dealing with the colony of Ilici. The most relevant is R. Ramos and J. Uroz, Dialoghi di Archeologia 10, 1992, pp. 95-104, arguing that Ilici had been granted the colony statute in 40 B.C. In a recent paper, G. Alföldy (Canelobre 48, 2003, pp. 35-57) deals with the foundation of Colonia Ilici and its issues, and he has proposed that it was probably established in 42 BC, thinking that Lepidus could have been involved to some degree; but A. M. Faria (R. P. Arq. 9.2, 2006, pp. 220-224) discusses reasons in favour of dating its foundation as a colony to 29-28 BC, by T Statilius Taurus as a deductor or adsignator, as M. Grant suggested (FITA p. 214).

187. The identification of the obv. object as a sportula, by M. Torelli (see R. Ramos and J. Uroz, Dialoghi di Archeologia 10, 1992, pp. 99-100) is far from certain, since simpula with two long handles have been engraved on coins minted in Ebora (RPC 50), Iulia Traducta (RPC 109) and Patricia (RPC 130). We maintain the identity of the object as a simpulum, although we recognize the unusual shape depicted on Ilici coins and on the other mentioned mints as well (about simpula see, M. Castoldi, M. Feugère, La Vaisselle tardorépublicaine en Bronze, Dijon, 1991, pp. 61-88; C. Pérez González, Arqueología militar romana en Europa, Segovia, 2005, pp. 75-88).

190/60-611. IVDJ 2816-2817, 6.54 (PETRONI), 5.98 (PETRO).

192/59 = M. 3, 650, 1 (= SNG Glasgow 65), 8.22 (not 6.82g, as in M); 123. IVDJ 2821, 6.35 (TER).

196. Herrero 13/2/2003, lot 63, 10.50, with variant SETAL, has been tooled, since it was struck with the rev. die Llorens R29 which shows SETTAL.

199. The object between the two togate figures previously described as an altar is in fact a thymiatérion (see A. M. Faria, R. P. Arq. 9.2, 2006, p. 222), 54. IVDJ 2832, 6.30.

Saguntum

200-204. See now, P. P. Ripollés, M. M. Llorens, Arse-Saguntum. Historia monetaria de la ciudad y sus territorio, Sagunto, 2002 [Ripollès-Llorens, here]. The new readings of some Latin legends show that Saguntum was a colony during a short period, dropping the Iberian name Arse. According to Cícero (pro Balbo IX, 23), in 56 BC, the city still had a federate status and from an inscription (CIL IV/14, 305), of 4/3 BC, we know that it had obtained municipal legal status; so, some (or all) colonial coins could have been minted after 44 BC (P.P. Ripollès and J. Velaza, QPE 141, 2002, pp. 285-291). As far as the quarters are concerned, it is not possible to attribute any to this period with certainty. The new coins that have been included have a diverse metrology (some of them were overstruck on coins from other mints, with very extreme weights), lighter than the initial standard of 19-21 g for this type of coins.

RPC 485, attributed to a Spanish uncertain mint, is now proposed to have been struck in Saguntum, since finds surrounding this city have increased in number (Ripollès-Llorens, p. 478).

Lepida / Celsa

L. Amela, Kalathos 20-21, 2001-2002, pp. 239-249, deals with the foundation date of the colony, proposing the second term of Lepidus (44-42 BC). M. P. García-Bellido, ‘La historia de la colonia Lepida-Celsa según sus documentos numismáticos: su ceca imperial’, AEspA, 76, 2003, pp. 273-290, tries to argue that the imperial aurei and denarii of ‘uncertain mint 1 (Colonia Caesaranaugusta)’ (RIC I, 26-49) were struck at Celsa and that colonial bronze was minted to supply the army. These hypotheses, none of them proven, are heavily biased in favour of the army. We disagree with these points of view, see RPC I, pp. 9 and 16-17.

A possible lead test-piece of a reverse die of an as of Celsa has been published by E. Collado and M. Gozalbes ‘Un plomo inédito de Celsa’, Gac. Num. 122, 1996, 47-51.

Metal analyses (XRF) on coins kept in the Museo Arqueológico Nacional (Madrid), published by A. Domínguez, Actas XI Congreso Nacional de Numismática, Zaragoza, 2002, pp. 53-70, show they were struck in bronze without or with a low amount of lead (Augustus: RPC 281, 282, 283, 284, 285, 286, 287, 289; Tiberius: RPC 291, 292, 293, 295, 296, 297, 298; Caligula: RPC 302, 303); in contrast, coin RPC 301 (Caligula) was struck on brass, as we predicted from the colour of the known specimens.

Caesaraugusta

M. Gómez Barreiro, ‘El papel de la colonia de Caesaraugusta en el contexto imperial augústeo. El testimonio histórico de la numismática’, AEspA, 76, 2003, pp. 291-307, discusses the date of settlement, given support to years 15-14 BC, moving from it the imperial aurei and denarii of ‘uncertain mint 1 (Colonia Caesaraugusta)?’ (RIC F, 26-49, dated 19-18 BC), because dates are incompatible. Gómez also deals with finds, halved and countermarked coins. Eight new coin analyses have been published by M. Gómez, Actas XI Congreso Nacional de Numismática, Zaragoza, 2002, pp. 104-109, with some interesting information for entries RPC 344, 363 and 365 (see below).

Hybrid (obv. Calagurris; rev. Lepida)

We still maintain our previous point of view about the irregular minting of these hybrid coins and we regard them as accidental. Reusing dies in Calagurris by unskilled and illiterate workers moving from Lepida/Celsa (with some rev. dies?) would be an alternative to imitation, due to the poor quality of some coins of Calagurris. Sharing the same workshop or dies by both mints, in a hypothetical (and not proven) compulsory coinage supply for the army fighting against the Cantabri, is the explanation proposed by M. P. García-Bellido (Arqueología militar romana en Europa, Segovia, 2005, p. 39-40).

In any case, we reject an organized cooperation between Calagurris and Lepida/Celsa, because only coins with crude engraving features (style and writing) are involved and because the mixed results make no sense. The reduced number of hybrid coins (3 between 170 coins of the types involved: RPC 262, 269, 433 and 438) strengthens our point of view.

In addition to these hybrid coins, other related pieces are known, which according to their crude style and incorrect legend, could be judged to be imitations (Celsa: Oxford (= RPC I, 269/imitation); Calagurris: Cores coll. (= RPC S2-I-438/27), favouring the idea that at the time there was an episode of coin forgery. All hybrid specimens seem to have been struck during or near the 20s BC, as can be deduced from the probable period when the magistrates held office (Balbus-Porcia: before Augustus’s reign, before or near 36 BC, when the colony bore the name Lepida; and Bucco-Front: late Octavianic or early Augustan period, since coins bear no emperor’s name and the city changed the name to Celsa). Other hybrid coins, see RPC 57, S-59A, S-1-56A and perhaps S-451A-B. The phenomena of imitations or irregular coinages also affected, at least, Osset (RPC 55-57), Trippo (RPC 58-59) and Caesar Augusta (RPC p. 118).

Feugère, ‘Les bronzes de Nîmes BN 2725 et 2735 et le sanctuaire guérisseur de Nemausus’, in Histoire, Espaces et Marges de l’Antiquité, I. Hommages à Monique Clavel-Lévêque (Besançon, 2003), pp. 227-231. Feugère interprets the type of 521 as a cupping glass and the palms as the symbol of Apollo. The female figure on 520 is Hygeia. Both types are related to the sanctuary of the fountain of Nîmes whose healing waters were renowned.

TVN and L V D | M | III VIR; identified the designs as a dolphin and two pilei; and attributed the coin to a colony at Tyndaris. Martini suggested that the coin was overstruck, but it seems probable that the marks that he interpreted as traces of an underype are really parts of a rudder. The designs, as Martini notes, are most like those on coins attributed by RPC I, 648-51 to Segesta, although they were previously attributed to Tyndaris. However, it is possible that the design on the reverse is actually of two corn ears, in which case an attribution elsewhere (e.g., Tingi) might be possible, and Martini rightly draws attention to the very uncertain nature of his reading of COL TVN. The clearest part of the legend is that on the obv. which Martini read as A POMP but even that might be A DOM...The attribution is best left open, possibly Sicily but possibly somewhere else.

Cirta/Constantine

On this coinage, see A. Berthier, Tiddis cité antique de Numidie (Paris, 2000), pp. 303-313, which contains nothing really new since La Numidie (Paris, 1981) and has many errors. No weight is given for the 4 specimens found at Tiddis (but one specimen is located in P = RPC I, 701/2) and RPC is unknown to Berthier. See also J. Alexandropoulos, Les monnaies de l’Afrique Antique 400 av. J.-C. - 40 ap. J.-C. (Toulouse, 2000), pp. 314-318 and p. 468, cat. nos. 131-135, who returns to a dating of 46-44 and a portrait of the condottiere P. Sittius. The remark, p. 318, n. 20, that the sign read as an S on RPC 704 is not the mark of the semis, but a Punic sign, which is also found on RPC 720 and some bronze coins of Juba I (Maz 91 and 92), carries some weight. But interpreting this sign as the mark of the mint of Cirta is difficult to accept: why would RPC 704 be the only series, among the five denominations, to have it?

In addition, S. Kremydi argues that Hortensius’ activity as founder of a colony should be assigned to Caesar’s initiative, not to Brutus’ and, therefore, his emission dated to 44 BC, not 43/42 BC. But the question to which colony these coins refer still remains open; though provenances favour Dium (where eleven out of the thirty-two known coins of Hortensius were found), the obverse type of the smaller denomination favours Cassandrea.

Countermark: capricorn r. The capricorn in this large square(ish) punch does not seem the same as any in GIC 297-311.

Dionysopolis

No coinage was attributed to Dionysopolis in RPC I or II (though see RPC Supplement I, p. 25), but it is possible that pseudoautonomous coins were struck during the first century: see D. Draganov, ‘The bronze coinage of Dionysopolis. Typology’, in eds. B. Kluge and B. Weisser, XII. Internationaler Numismatischer Kongress Berlin 1997. Akten - Proceedings - Actes (Staatliche Museen zu Berlin Preussischer Kulturbesitz, Berlin, 2000), p. 279, nos. 39-41. The three series have stylistic resemblances with coins of Tomi dated to the first century AD. They have in common to be countermarked with an object variously described as a ‘T’, a ‘hammer’ or a ‘poppy head’ (GIC 484).

Tomis

Over the last few years several new specimens have appeared suggesting the following imperial attributions:

Augustus S-1823A (no personal name)

Tiberius S2-I-1829corr (Dionysios)
S2-I-1831A, 1805-6 (Chairion)
perhaps 1828 (Chairoxenos)
1830-31 (Mikkos: attributed to Claudius in RPC I)

Caligula

1825-7 (Hegetorios)

Claudius S2-I-1831B and 1834 (Britannicus)
(Heiro[]dos)
1832-3 (Antonia, no personal name)
1835 (Agrippina II) (Phaidro[]): could be reign of Nero

Nero 1836-9 (Hestiaios, Epistra[])
The status of 1824 remains unsure, indeed doubtful.

S2-I-1829corr/5. Lanz 86, 18 May 1998, lot 384 (this new specimen reads TIBEPIO[ ] on obv., confirming Grant’s attribution to Tiberius. These are therefore the earliest definite coins of Tomi with an imperial portrait), 2.66; 6. Righetti (reading

1.  Righetti  (ΤΟΜΙ, [X]ΑΙ ΠΙ [ ]ΝΟΥ), 4.26; 2. Righetti  (ΤΟΓΙ, ΧΑΙ[ ] ), 1.96. The personal name could be completed as either ΧΑΙΠΙΟΝΟΥ as occurs on ‘pseudo-autonomous’ coins: RPC I,1805-6). RPC I, 1828 is described as having very similar designs and legends and while the reverse could be restored as ΧΑΙΠΙΕΝΟΥ, the name ΧΑΙΠΟΞΕΝΟΥ, as given for 1828, can be ruled out. Attribution to Tiberius seems more probable.

1833corr. On the reverse, three ears of corn between torches (not caps of Dioscuri).

Tyra

Zograph, Ancient Coinage (1977), p. 176, mentioned copper coins of Augustus (with the head of Augustus on the obverse and an eagle on the reverse) found at Belgorod Dniestrovski, but no illustration was provided. We failed to take account of V.A. Anokhin, Moneti Antichich Gorodov. Cerero-Zapadnego Pritchernomoria (Kiev, 1989), where such a coin is illustrated as no. 483, but attributed to Vespasian. Given the fact that the obverse legend is KAICAPOC CCBACTO[Y], an attribution to Augustus seems more likely. There are two such coins in P, but ticketed as Severus Alexander! A third coin, also ticketed as Severus Alexander, might even provide a larger denomination of this Augustan issue (same legend, same designs, but with larger diameter and the mark of value H in the reverse field). However, V. Bárca, ‘Considérations concernant les monnaies du Ier siècle ap. J.-Chr. à Tyra’, Thraco-Dacica XX 1-2 (1999), pp. 369-382, considers that the coins with the legend KAICAPOC CCBACTOY must be attributed to Claudius I.

Heuchert informs us that the form of the A with a dropped bar would be unusual for the Antonine period, as would the form of the ethnic. On the other hand the A-form does not occur in the Julio-Claudian or Flavian periods, and during the first century we always have Σ rather than Ε. Perhaps a date early in the second century is possible. The question will be resolved when a specimen turns up with a clear date.

1. L 2000-3-35-1, 4.42. No coins have previously been recorded for the Julio-Claudian period for Gargara, the earliest imperial issue otherwise being for Vespasian (RPC II, 901). The head is presumably Augustus. Coins of Augustus are mentioned by Head and BMC (p. xxxviii), but not actually attested before this.

Cmk: incuse R (?). (GIC -). A Latin letter would be a bit unexpected, so perhaps B is a possibility. KM 39, 7 mentions a K on its side 'im Felde eingeritzt' for a coin of Vespasian, omitted in error for RPC II, 901/2, but visible on the illustration at the top of the reverse.

ΣΠΙ ΝΕΜΟΝΙΚΟΥ; helmeted bust of Roma (Athena?), wearing aegis, l. ΑΙ[ ]ΟΙ[ ] Ω[ ]; Zeus standing l., holding eagle and sceptre

1. L 2002-2-1-2, 4.31. The name on the obverse is perhaps the father of the Apollonios Nemeonikou who appears on coins of the reign of Vespasian (RPC II, 965-9). Nemeonikos is there translated as referring to a Nemean victor, but this coin shows that it is actually a name. The possibility was considered that this might be the same man as the one who appears on the Flavian coins (cf. on the Claudian coins we have both ΣΠΙ ΑΠΟΛΛΟΝΙΟΥΡΟΥ ΠΟ ΥΙΟΥ ΧΑΛΚΟΥ as well as just ΣΠΙ ΧΑΛΚΟΥ, both referring to the same man: RPC I, 2429-31), but the reverse design and epigraphy is different from the Flavian coin, and in fact very similar to that on the Claudian coins. If Nemeonikos is the father of the Flavian Apollodoros, then a date for this coin in the Claudian (plus/minus) would fit well with the coin appearance. It is hard to be sure, as ever, whether the head is of Roma or Athena.

2527, S-2527A Re-examination of the previously known specimens and a new specimen in the Weigel collection suggest a modification to the position summarised in RPC Supplement, but the problem is not solved. We have (all inscribed sebastes on the obv.):

3 specimens in Plankenhorn collection.

S2-I-2527B

laureate head ΧΑΡΙΣΕΝΟΣ ΜΕΝΕΚΡΑΤΟΥΣ; to r., A on side.

1. Lindgren 3, 472 (ΧΑΡΙΣΕΝΟΣ ΜΕΝΕ[ ]ΑΟΥΣ). 2. Weigel ([ ]ΕΝΟΣ [ ]Ε[ ]ΑΟΥΣ) (same rev. die as Lindgren 3, 472) The simplest explanation is to assume that the engraver of the reverse die of S2-I-2527B has omitted the T from the patronymic. It would then be the same name as on S-2527A. However, it is far from certain that it represents the same man since the style and epigraphy of S2-I-2527B suggest that it might be rather later, and that the person mentioned is perhaps even a grandson. The mystery of the different patronymics on 2527 and S-2527A, coins that are stylistically similar, remains. The P coin (2527) does not seem to have been altered, so we seem to be left with two different men of the same first name signing coins at more or less the same time. The discovery of new specimens may help to bring some further explanation.

2617/2. SNG Leypold 548, 3.91; 3. Yale (ex PRF), 3.06. These specimens complete the personal name; previously read ANT[ ], the reading given by SNG Leypold is ANT-A-IΟΣ, Antillos. But ANTAIOΣ, Antaios, is a more likely possibility, confirmed by the Yale specimen.

2629 var: Gorny and Mosch 104, 9-10 Oct. 2000, lot 678, 9.20 (as 2629, but draped bust of Nero, r. facing draped bust of Poppaea, l.).

2632 MMAG 86, 3-4 June 1998, lot 69, 7.23, may well have Roma in a somewhat different pose on the rev. from normal, but does not seem at all to depict ‘Zeus mit Szepter und Adler’. The figure is surely female and the inscription identifies her as ΡΩΜΗ, as is normal. However the inscription is probably variant, since ΕΦΕΣΙΩΝ clearly appears to the r. of the figure, and it may well be that the coin omits any reference to the proconsul or the local ‘magistrate’, although there may be traces of some additional legend to the r.

Cos

2724-31 The coins of Nicias have been discussed by K. Buraselis, Kos. Between Hellenism and Rome (Transactions of the American Philosophical Society, Vol. 90, Philadelphia, 2000), pp. 30-7. He also mentions three specimens in Cos museum: 1 as 2724 (Antiochos), 1 as 2729 (Olympichos), and 1 with illegible name. He discusses the wreaths worn by Nicias and by Asclepius and suggests that Nicias wears a band of Asclepius. However, the band worn by Nikias seems slighter than the band (whatever it is) worn on the same coins by Asclepius. Nevertheless, some sort of heroic band, as suggested by Buraselis’s discussion, seems quite likely. Buraselis also argues that the coin recorded by Sestini from the Wiczay collection with the obv. inscription ΝΙΚΙΑΣ ο ΔΑΜΟΣ should be accepted as authentic, and theorises that Nicias was closely identified with the people. However, this seems implausible and we prefer to think that Sestini was misdescribing a worn specimen. Sestini gives a reference to Wiczay’s earlier publication, Musei Hedervarii. Numos Antiquos (Vienna, 1814) no. 5182, with the comment ‘sed ibi male descriptus, et perperam sub Augusto’. The Wiczay publication describes the coin as ‘ΚΑΙΣ.... Caput Aug nudum sm’; That the same coin could be read in such different ways suggests that it was very worn, and we should hesitate before accepting Sestini’s view.

[ ]ΙΟΣ ΚΑΙ; two small bare jugate heads, r. ΑΛΑΒΑΝΔΕΩΝ; female head r.

1. Winterthur 6947 (ex Schulten 18 Nov. 1989, lot 422). The female head seems very similar to that on 2807 (possibly even the same die??). The remains of the obv. legend suggest that the two heads are Gaius and Lucius, thereby confirming the identification of the head on 2807 as Augustus, assuming that it is correct to associate the two issues. This association is based on the stylistic similarity of the head on the reverse and the same very small module of the coins.

2822 J. Goddard points out that all three specimens have identical flans and metal breaks. So two at least must be old cast forgeries, perhaps all three if there is another as yet untraced original. On the other hand the brass used for the L specimen is found for other Alabandan issues.

The inscription seems clear from the illustration in SNG Leypold, and, although there is no personal name on the coin, it is stylistically like the coins of Mnaseas, of c. AD 65. However it is very surprising to find the phrase ‘twice neocorate’ as early as the reign of Nero, and it is very hard to interpret it in the case of Sardis, whose second neocorate is not attested until the reign of Septimius Severus (BMC 205). The suspicion arises that there is something wrong with the coin.

Termessus by Oenoanda

3358-61 J.J. Coulton, ‘Termessians at Oinoanda’, Anatolian Studies 32, 1982, pp. 115-31; discusses the site of Termessos. He thinks that the Lycian Termessians established themselves at Oinoanda, so that the city was inhabited by two groups which retained their political structures.

A corpus of the coinage is given by E. Kosmetatou, ‘The coinage of Lycian Termessos pros Oinoandois’, QT 27, 1998, pp. 161-83:

RPC I Kosmetatou
3358 XIV
3359 XII
3360 XI
3361 III (1st century BC).

Kosmetatou regards her series XIII and XV as smaller denominations of series XI, XII and XIV; their obverses are described as heads of Augustus and Tiberius, but look like busts of Artemis with a quiver on shoulder (and with a zebu rather than a horse on the reverse), as on series VI no. 2, which she dates to the 1st century BC.

Pseudo-autonomous coins were probably struck during the first century, as shown by the hoard published by R. Ziegler, ‘Zum Geldumlauf in Asia Minor’, Coin Finds and Coin Use in the Roman World, eds. C. E. King and D. G. Wigg (Berlin, 1996), pp. 437-460.

Other pseudo-autonomous coins, which lack a date, but whose style is close to S2-I-3708A-B, might also have been struck under Antiochus IV (though a date in the Flavian period might also be considered: compare RPC II, 1705).

S2-I-3809A AR drachm. [0]
ΒΑΣΙΛΙΣΣΗΣ ΤΡΥΦΑΙΝΗΣ; in lines in a diadem
ΕΤΟΥΣ [I]Η; laureate head of Nero (?), r.
1. Giessener 95, 9 March 1999, lot 546, 3.61. An intriguing coin. The date year 18 is found on coins with portraits of Polemo and Tryphaena (RPC 3809) and on coins with portraits of Nero and Polemo (RPC 3830; cf. 3837 of Polemo and Britannicus (?); there are also coins with a portrait of Claudius and Polemo’s name written out in a diadem for years 12-17 (RPC 3816-20). So the combination of Tryphaena and emperor is slightly surprising. However that may be the coin demonstrates that the years on coins of Tryphaena are the same as the regnal years on coins of Polemo and of Nero (cf. RPC pp. 567-8).

Kingdom of Armenia

A summary of the coins of the ancient Armenian rulers can be found in Y.T. Nercessian, Armenian Coins and their Values (Armenian Numismatic Society Special Publication no. 8, Los Angeles, 1995). This is based largely on the works of P. Bedoukian and should be read with the article by F. Kovacs, ‘Additions and corrections to Armenian Coins and their Values’, Armenian Numismatic Journal 30.3 (2004), pp. 83-6. Nercessian gives RPC 3841-2 to Tigranes V and 3843 to Artavasdes IV.

Kovacs adds some extraordinary new coins and attributions: Nercessian 178-9; traditionally attributed to Tigranes IV and Erato, are redated to AD 66/7 (TEK = Seleucid 325) and so to Tigranes VI; and attributed to Aradus (on the basis of the similarity of the reverse design, Tyche on a rudder). The new description of the reverse is plausible and clear on the coin illustrated by Kovacs pl. 5.8, but the attribution to Aradus is difficult, since the coin is stylistically different from coins of Aradus and since Aradus uses the date in the form TKЄ (RPC I, 4491-3). It is not clear who the king Tigranes might be: a Tigranes was appointed to Armenia in 60, but seems to have disappeared by 63. So it must be a possibility that TEK is not a date.

BACI TIP; bust of Tiridates, r.
BACI[ ]ATP[ ] ; bust of Cleopatra r.

1. Kovacs pl. 8.11, 10.80 (axis: 12).

These two extraordinary coins are attributed by Kovacs (who promises a fuller publication) to Tiridates I of Armenia and queen Cleopatra; he interprets the letters E and A and indicating year 1 = AD 63 (though presumably Tiridates could have counted from a variety of dates, including AD 54).

The Cleopatra is otherwise unknown.

The two coins are stylistically so different that we are probably dealing with either different mints or different periods.

For civic coins of Artaxata, including one erroneously attributed to Aegospotami (?) in RPC S-1738A, see M. Amandry, ‘Du monnayage d’Artaxisata et de soi-disant monnaies d’Aegospotami’ BSEF 57:1 (2002), pp. 173-7, with discussion of date. The attribution of these coins to Armenia was confirmed by R. Vardanyan, as specimens of S2-I-3844B and S2-I-3844C were discovered on the site of Artaxisata. For more discussions, see R. Vardanyan’s article (forthcoming).

It is not clear that their no. 47A really does represent a new variety, as the ‘ivy-leaf’ is anyway perhaps the tie of the wreath. See also Butcher, CRS, pp. 68-9, who tentatively suggests that the coins may have been produced at Caesarea for use in Syria.

4127-49 A hoard of 677 pieces has been published by R. McAlee, ‘The Livia Hoard of Pseudo-Philip Tetradrachms’, AJV11, 1999, pp. 1-12 (many pieces from the first hoard are presumably those in CNG 49, 17 March 1999, lots 1028-44). Coins are attested for year 23 (KΓ: 3 specimens), for year 26 with the variation in date of LΚ (1 specimen; previously LΚ was known) and almost certainly year 36 = 14/13 BC (1 specimen: the reading LΑ does seem likely even though the specimen is not completely clear and even though it shares an obv. die with coins of years 31, 32 and 33). This gives the last date for which posthumous Philips were made, and the die sharing with previous years suggests that the coinage petered out. McAlee also discusses weights and ‘control marks’. He also refers to another small hoard of pseudo-Philips, some 25 specimens of years 3-6 (see his p. 6 note 9 for references to sale catalogues). His article was published too late to be taken account of by M. and K.Prieur, The Syro-Phoenician Tetradrachms and their Fractions (Lancaster PA and London, 2000), which follows RPC.

1. Burstein (Peus 366, 2000) lot 1117, 12.26. The first silver coin for Caligula from Laodicea. It would be tempting to associate the tetradrachm for Divus Augustus with this new piece for Caligula, since both have ΦΙ, but the coins of Augustus are too heavy (average 13.51g), and ΦΙ also occurs on silver of Nero. The weight difference does indeed suggest that the Divus Augustus piece was minted soon after the piece of Augustus and well before Caligula’s reign, i.e. early in the reign of Tiberius.

Gadara

4809-10 Monika Bernett has pointed out that the coins dated year 34 cannot date to 31/0 since they give Augustus the title sebastos. The era must in this case be not the normal Pompeian era but a different, probably Augustan one. A. Stein (= Kushnir-Stein), Studies in Greek and Latin Inscriptions on the Palestinian Coinage under the Principate (Ph.D. thesis, Tel-Aviv University, 1990), discussed Gadara on pp. 26-8, and after confirming, on the basis of inscriptions and coins of Elagabalus, that year 1 = 64/3 BC, she went on (pp. 27-8): ‘Apart from a single issue all known dates conform to an era of 64 BC. The only exception is the series dated ‘year 34’ and bearing on the obverse the portrait of Augustus and the legend ΣΕΒΑΣΤΟ ΚΑΙΣΑΡΙ. The era employed cannot be that of 64 BC since by this calculation the coins would have been struck in 31/30 BC - too early a date for Octavian to be called ΣΕΒΑΣΤΟΣ (Augustus). The era in question is most probably that of 31 BC (often called ‘Actian’) used at the time by many other cities of Syria. This would date the coins to 3/4 AD. The use of the ‘Actian’ era was discontinued after the death of the first princeps. The next emission of the city - from the time of Tiberius - is dated by the city era, and so are all its subsequent issues.’

Nysa-Scythopolis

4825-8 Full study have now been published by R. Barkay, ‘Coins of Roman Governors issued by Nysa-Scythopolis in the Late Republican Period’, LNY 13, 1994-99, pp. 54-62; and R. Barkay, The Coinage of Nysa-Scythopolis (Beth-Shean), CNPV (Jerusalem, 2003).

Barkay’s figures are based on much more material than RPC. Barkay 2 are coins similar to RPC 4826, of poor style, with an ivy leaf behind Nike (see the illustration of 4826/12 in the Supplement), and with a die axis of 1 o’clock whereas the rest of the coinage is struck with dies adjusted at 12. Barkay 5 should include S-4828A as the coin illustrated under her no. 5 and the RBW coin illustrated in the Supplement are from the same obv. die, but she connects S-4828A with her no. 6 (pp. 38-9). Barkay 12a-e details the countermarks found on Nero’s coinage.

Barkay plausibly suggests that the rev. figure on 4-6 is Dionysus with a thyrsus rather than a sceptre (as RPC). She identifies the heads on the obverses as portraits of Roman governors (i.e. 1-4: Gabinius; 5: Crassus; 6. Bassus). However, the heads on 1-2, described as ‘laureate (?)’ (RPC) or ‘diademed’ (Barkay) do not look like portraits, and probably represent a wreathed head of Dionysus. The heads on 3-4 certainly look like portraits and Gabinius is the obvious choice, especially in view of the letters ΓΑΒ. The heads on 5-6 are dated to 55/4 BC and (probably) 46/5 BC but they are of a much poorer style, and though there is no inscription accompanying them, they could well be later portraits honouring him (so RPC) rather than portraits of later governors. As for the relative chronology of 1-2 and 3-4 Barkay is probably right in using the sequence of reverse legends as a criterion.

Ascalon

JUDAEAN KINGDOM

Herod Antipas

4918-37 M. Bernett has suggested that, if Antipas departed for Rome in spring 39, as Josephus may suggest, then it might be difficult to imagine a coinage for him in late 39/40. But it seems possible that coinage might have been made in his absence, and it is hard to believe that his era would be different from that of Philip. Moreover, as A. Kushnir-Stein has pointed out to us, Josephus’ account provides no clear chronology.

KYIPP[O]C BA[CC]A IC[CA]. 4975/1 can be read better as [       ]POC BA-СI[     ], as M. Amandry has confirmed; 2. (see Malel-Gerstenfield) is illegible; 3.
(Meshorer, Suppl.) can be read [       ]KYIPP[O]C [     ] (note that the illustrations of Gamala 33 and 34 have been mixed up, as the darkness of the relevant photos shows).
The reverse can be distinguished from the similar coins of Philip; for Philip the reverse legend reads outwardly, whereas for Agrippa it reads inwardly.

EGYPT

The most important new work is Catalogo Completo della Collezione Dattari Numi Augg. Alexandrini, ed. A.
Savio (Trieste, 1999). Its complete series of rubbings of the coins listed by Dattari (and also the supplementary coins he acquired after the publication of the book) enables many uncertainties to be resolved. The following abbreviation is used: DS.

E. Gölitzer, Entstehung und Entwicklung des alexandrinischen Münzwesens von 30 v. C. bis zum Ende der julisch-claudischen Dynastie, Berlin, 2004, has carried out more analyses of coins of the Julio-Claudian period.

Augustus

J.W. Müller, ‘Sur les années de règne d’Auguste et de Tibère en Égypte’, BSFV 55, 5 (2000), pp. 88-93, provides a discussion of the era used by Augustus and cites astronomical data that confirms the traditional era whereby year 1 = 30/29 BC.

5008 Specimen with ΛΙΟΥΙΑ[   ]CΕΒΑΣΤΟΣ (sic):
Hudson collection, 8.19.

5031A star / ΣΕΒΑΣΤΟY around ΛΑ:
DS 6604. Other of the small denominations might include new things (e.g. DS 6600), but they are insufficiently legible to be included.

Tiberius

J.W. Müller, ‘Sur les années de règne d’Auguste et de suggests that the traditional dates for Tiberius are wrong, since they ignore the last few days of August after Augustus’ death. These should correspond to year 1 of Tiberius, with AD 14/15 being year 2 rather than year 1 as is normally assumed. He looks for astronomical support for this view in some of the designs of Tiberius’ coinage. There is no compelling supporting evidence and he points out that in Syria year 1 = 14/15.

5088 cites ‘Livia/peacock Λς’ from ‘D107 (doubtfull?)’. The rubbing in DS 107 reveals only a female head/bird r. The annotation in DS adds ‘LI’ but that is not clear. Both the attribution to Livia and to Alexandria are very doubtful.

‘Caligula’

5106 A coin cited in the note from D108, with the comment (see also RPC p. 698) that the date is more likely to be year 3 than the year 4 given in D’s text.
DS 108 shows that the date is actually off flan! There is thus no evidence for pieces of year 4.

5110 Specimen in lead (Jarman collection).
DS 6624a is supposed to be a coin of Caesonia. It has a head r., and ?Δ in wreath. But the head is not definitely female, and it is probably a coin of Tiberius, as RPC 5076 (it would be rather small, but perhaps an E as part of [Σ]E is visible to the r. of the bust?).

Claudius

S2-I-5121A As 5121 but rev. lacks AYTOKPA and obv. legend reads ΕΠ | ΕΥΤΟ: 1. Jarman collection (25mm, 7.89: the legend definitely ends ΕΥΣ rather than AYTOKP); 2. DS133 is probably another specimen of the same thing. The variant belongs with 5119-20 as a rare initial group of Claudian bronze.

5133 D117 is cited wrongly under RPC 5134; see DS 117.

5134 Although D117 is wrongly cited here (see note to 5133), DS 6625 does attest the entry (and is the only known specimen; one wonders if coins 117 and 6625 were swapped by mistake?).

5166 DS 6626 is another specimen of the very rare tetradrachm of Antonia for year 6.

5182 RPC p. 703, after 5182: ‘D154 records a coin with eagle and thunderbolt and LIA on reverse: error for?’. DS 154 is annotated LIA, but LIA is equally possible.

5192 The unique specimen cited from D183 is confirmed by the rubbing in DS 183. DS 6634 is probably a (less clear) second example.

5194 Specimen with misengraved date (L III): Hudson collection, 11.21.

5196 The citation of D182 should be deleted. The rubbing in DS 182 looks more like LIB = RPC 5190.

p.704, A refers to a supposed coin of Claudius, year 15, cited from D154. DS 154 shows that the reading is clearly LIA (as indeed stated by Dattari’s annotation). See also below.

p.704, B refers to a supposed coin of Agrippina, year 15, cited from D180. Dattari’s annotation to DS 180 has LIE, but this is very uncertain. In fact the second letter of the date looks more like B, as LIB = RPC 5188.

Nero

S2-I-5201A As 5201, but head of Agrippina l. DS 6635.

5219 D248 is wrongly cited here; it belongs to RPC 5229.

F AYTOKPA; bust of Sarapis, r.

1. Pincock collection (ex Monnaies Antiques, Geneva, 16 Nov. 1998, lot 585), 10.25; 2-3: see E. Christiansen, The Roman Coins of Alexandria (1988), p. 82, for specimens in Dresden and Stockholm. Christiansen regarded them as dubious, possibly bronze forgeries of the tetradrachms of the same year with the same reverse type, but the obverse is right for bronze coins. 1 looks like a bronze coin, so they must represent a new bronze denomination for year 10.

5285 DS 281 shows that the date is clearly year 14, not 11 (see RPC Supplement). See also 5286.

5286 DS 280 shows that the date is clearly year 14, not 11 (see RPC Supplement). See also 5285.

5297 Specimen with retrograde obv. legend (Jarman collection).

S2-I-5300A As 5300, but head of Poseidon l. DS 245 (perhaps just an engraver’s error?).

5304 DS 6660 has the eagle’s head turned back to r.
DS 276 shows clearly that (contra the statement on RPC, p. 710: “existence uncertain”) the coin (AE 30mm, obv. G, rev. Nike with wreath and palm r.) does exist.

Galba

5347 (Capitoline temple type). DS plate 11, no number, is a second example.

Vitellius

5374 It should have been noted that G 147 has a different and anomalous obv. legend (ΑΥΤΟΚΑΙΣ ΑΥΛΟΥ ΥΙΟΤΕΛΑΙΟΣ ΓΕΡ[   ]); as Macdonald notes in his catalogue, this can be disregarded since the obv. is reworked in modern times.

5402 (P Coscon) C. Stannard, ‘Overstrikes and imitative coinages in central Italy in the late Republic’, in A. Burnett et al., Coins of Macedonia and Rome. Essays in Honour of Charles Hersh (London, 1998), pp. 209-29, at p. 217 no. 38 identifies the undertype as a quadrans of Rome. This implies an origin from the western part of the Roman world, if not indeed somewhere in central Italy.

5409 (Q coinage) Four specimens in Amasya Museum (S. Ireland, Greek, Roman and Byzantine Coins in the Amasya Museum (London, 2000), p. 53 nos. 2096-9. These, further specimens, in addition to the two in Samsun and Amasra (see RPC Supplement) indicate beyond any real doubt that the Q coins emanate from somewhere in northern Turkey.

5410/12. Now Triton V, 15 Jan. 2002 (Freedman collection), lot 521; 16. (Q coinage) CNG MBS 51, 15 Sep. 1999, lot 959, 8.18, where it is suggested that this and RPC I, 4082-3 portray Sosius, quaestor in 39BC. But the attribution of the Q coins to northern Turkey makes this difficult.

5411/3. (Q coinage) Stuttgart, MK 1998/91, 2.95.

5414/3. Now PV collection; 4. RBW (ex Gorny and Mosch 126, 13 Oct. 2003, lot 1602), 3.76. This new specimen confirms the expected reverse legend of M MEMMIV.
M. Spoerri, ‘Une émission au nom d’Auguste et de Tibère attribuable à Chalcis’, SM März 2002/Heft 205, pp. 3-4, publishes 5474/3, a specimen found in 1967 at Eretria in the course of the excavations conducted there by the Swiss archaeological school. She is right to relate this coin to the two specimens in the BCD collection published as RPC S-5474 (one of which comes from Thessaly). The Eretrian specimen shows a monogram, ΧΑ, on the obverse, in front of Augustus’ head. Because of the provenances and the monogram, M. Spoerri interprets the monogram as the abbreviation of Chalcis. But she rightly stresses the difficulties of inserting this coin into the provincial coinage of Chalcis.

S-5475/1 is probably another specimen of S-1420A/1, possibly from the same pair of dies. Therefore S-5475/1 should be deleted and given to the Magnetes.

S-5476/2. L 2001-3-35-3, 2.27 (axis: 3). This second specimen shows that the complete obverse legend is CAESAR.

1. Winterthur 7060 ex Kunker 21, 16-18 March 1992, lot 572 (tentatively attributed to Myndus). It is not clear that the letter to the left of the bust of the obv. really is a letter; if it is then it seems to be an alpha or a lambda. The rev. is difficult to complete; a name like Pausanias would fit but seems rather long given the relatively large size of the letters. If M begins another word (e.g. an ethnic) then one would expect only one more letter before -anias, to guess from the space available. It is not unlike the coin tentatively attributed to Ceramus (RPC I, 2773A: Uncertain mint in Asia).
ADDENDA TO RPC II

CRETE

N. Litinas, ‘Ostraca Chersonessi. Preliminary report’, in A. Chaniotis (ed.), From Minoan Farmers to Roman Traders: Sidelights on the Economy of Ancient Crete (Stuttgart, 1999), pp. 349-51, has published some ostraca which refer to denarii and their subdivisions. The subdivisions are indicated by the Greek letter χ, and it can be calculated that 1 denarius = 26 χ, possibly (he suggests) standing for tetrachalkia.

Josifovski does not know RPC 307-8; conversely, Josifovski 10 and 46 were not known to RPC. If Josifovski 10 is a variety of RPC 307, Josifovski 46 is more important, as it is the only coin known for Domitia (if it is genuine: see commentary).

ASIA

Aurei and denarii

801-58. The forthcoming revised edition of RIC 2, by I. Carradice and T. Buttery, makes a number of changes to this section, and several new varieties are now known. One group may not exist (RPC 814-5), and there seems to be an additional group with a star and an annulet, as well as the coins with a star, also for Vespasian as cos v and Titus as cos iii (see RPC 852/3 and 6; and 856).

810/2: Lanz 112, 25-26 Nov. 2002, lot 395, 3.10 (the end of the obv. legend is off-flan and might read COS II as well).

827/2. Lanz 112, 25-26 Nov. 2002, lot 395, 3.10 (the end of the obv. legend is off-flan and might read COS II as well).

IMP VESP CAES AVG PONT MAX TRIB POT COS III; laureate head of Vespasian, r.
COM ASIA; temple with four columns

This is the second non-plated cistophorus of Vespasian, with a somewhat different reverse from RPC II, 859. Although it is from a different obverse die, it confirms the COS III reading for 859.

Cyzicus

880/3. Righetti (long legend). The coin from the Huston catalog 134, 1994 (given as 1998 in error), lot 48, was listed in RPC II as possibly the third example known of the type 880. It is in fact a coin of Anazarbus, type RPC 1749, now in NY (inv. 2001.21.9); see AJV 13 (2001), p. 181, no. 13 and pl. 11, no. 7.

Parium

888corr/8: SNG Leypold 381, 6.40. This coin, together with a reexamination of the other specimens, suggests that the correct reverse legend is COS XVII (not XVI), which means that the series was struck in AD 95.

p. 137  AE. 18mm, 2.91g (1). Axis: 6.

1. JSW 1984 (BM photo-file), 2.91. An attribution to Rome was suggested for this and similar small bronze coins in RPC II, but I. Carradice suggests that an alternative possibility is the similar ‘Latin aes from Thrace’ (after RPC II, 510): similar obverse titles.

Alexandria

Assus

899/2. Winterthur 6338, 5.87 (axis: 12). A second example, from the same dies though very worn, of the somewhat enigmatic ‘Ioulia Augousta’ coin.

Gargara

901/2. Countermark: KM 39, 7 mentions a K on its side ‘im Felde eingeritzt’ for a coin of Vespasian, omitted in error for RPC II, 901/2, but visible on the illustration at the top of the reverse.

Germe

K. Ehling’s corpus, Die Münzprägung der mysischen Stadt Germe in der römischen Kaiserzeit (Asia Minor Studien 42, Bonn, 2001), has now been published ΣΠ Τ ΦΑΞΙΓΩΝΟΥ [   ]; Demos of Sardis standing, r., with Demos of Smyrna (?) standing, l.

1. L 2001-5-1-2, 9.06. The obverse legend is presumably Τιτο Αυτοκράτορος; Καίσαρος would be possible as the second word, but it does look like an Ο before the P. The title occurs at Assus and Smyrna under Vespasian, but the genitive form is unusual and contrasts oddly with the dative, which is used on the coins of Esiignos for Vespasian. The reverse design is much the same as on the coins for Domitian as sole emperor (RPC II, 1317), although the two demoi are not clasping hands. The similarity of design suggests the identification of the other demos as that of Smyrna, even though they are not named as on RPC II, 1317. This is only the second ‘alliance’ coinage from the reign of Vespasian (RPC II, pp. 6-7, 34).

1. B (= I-B, GM 750/747); 2. vA 6129, 3.08. This series without imperial portrait was omitted from RPC II, but probably belongs to the Flavian period as the legend ΣΕΒΑΣΤΗΝΩΝ ΤΕΚΤΟΣΑΙΩΝ figures only on RPC II, 1620-3.

Pessinus

1627/5. Boutkowski 1886; 6. St Petersburg (5-6: casts in Winterthur); 6-8. Amasya Museum 76.15.23, 78.2.21, 84.8.31, 6.67, 5.84, 6.90 (= S. Ireland, Greek, Roman and Byzantine Coins in the Museum at Amasya (Ancient Amaseia), Turkey, London, 2000, no. 1762-3, 1998). Coin 1998 is placed among the uncertain but the photo of the obverse suggests RPC 1627 (probably the same die as 1627/1), as indicated in the text; 9. = 1722/1 (see note below on 1722), with variant obv. legend.

1628/2-3: Amasya Museum 74.39.3, 80.4.1, 7.52, 7.51 (= S. Ireland, Greek, Roman and Byzantine Coins in the Museum at Amasya (Ancient Amaseia), Turkey, London, 2000, no. 262-3). Thanks to Amasya 80.4.1, illustrated, the reverse legend of 1628 can be completed as ΕΠΙ ΝΕΡΑΙΟΥ ΠΑΝΣΑ. On the obv., the round countermark with CB seems unknown to GIC.

The fact that one specimen of 1627 was probably found at [or around] Samsun, three others at [or around] Amaseia and two of 1628 at [or around] Amaseia, quite far from Pessinus, may indicate that the attribution to Pessinus (?) needs to be seriously questioned.

CILICIA

Anemurium

‘Pseudo-autonomous’ coins were probably struck during the reigns of Titus and Domitian. To those already published (RPC II, 1705, 1712, 1713) must probably be added a type close to RPC II, 1713 which belonged to the hoard published by R. Myus Myus in Cilicia supposedly has an issue in the reign of Domitian (ZfN 12, 1885, pp. 334-5; cf. BMC p. xlvi), but this is in fact a misread coin of Nacrasa in Berlin (RPC II, 932/12).

Coropissus

Pompeiopolis

1722/1. The unique coin of Vespasian attributed to Pompeipolis by Levante, and accepted as such in RPC, is in fact a coin of Pessinus (?). The entry should be deleted from RPC II. The reverse legend was read as ΠΟΜΠΗΙΟΠΟ[ ], but ΠΠΙΝ can be read before ΠΟΜΠΗ[ ], and the similarity of reverse type with 1627 makes it likely that the Levante coin is another specimen of RPC 1627. The obv. legend reads in fact ΚΑΙΣΑΡΙ ΣΕΒΑΣ ΟΥΣΙΠΛΙΩΝ [Ω] which is a variant of 1627.

1. L = BMC 20, 23.83. The tentative readings of the letters in the field including year 115 = AD 68/9 were made by Bloesch (noted under cast in Winterthur), but are very uncertain.
1771/2. Winterthur G 7062 (ex Kunker 21, 1992, lot 648), 17.51. This specimen seems to be from the same obv. die as 1771/1. Therefore the obv. legend should be read as ΑΥΤΟΚΡΑΤΩΡ ΔΟΜΙΤΙΑΝΟΣ ΚΑΙΣΑΡ. The rev. die of 1771/1 is different from 1771/2. Under Domitia’s neck, the letters ΚΡΔΙΜ or ΔΗΡ or ΔΗΜ are visible.

1780/2. Now Winterthur G 7064.

1781corr/3. Winterthur 6456. The new specimen provides some additional, if unsurprising letters to the obv. legend: [Α]ΥΤ ΚΑΙΣΑΡ ΔΟΜΙΤΙΑΝΟΣ ΣΕΒ ΓΕΡΜ]. In RPC II, ΦΙΛΩΤΙΑ should of course replace the mistaken ΠΛΩΤΑ in this entry.

1782/3. Winterthur G 6456, 14.23. The obv. legend is ΑΥΤΟ ΚΑΙΣΑΡ ΔΟΜΙΤΙΑΝΟΣ ΣΕΒ ΓΕΡΜ; 4. H. Wells collection (cast in Winterthur). The obv. legend should be ΔΟΜΙΤΙΑΝΟΣ ΣΕΒΑ[ ], [ ]ΜΠΙΑΝΟΣ. ΣΕΒ can be read on 3, while ΔΟΜΙΤΙΑΝΟΣ ΣΕΒΑ[ ] can be read on 1 (illustrated in RPC). The complete legend would presumably have been something like ΔΟΜΙΤΙΑΝΟΣ ΣΕΒΑΣΤΟΣ ΓΕΡΜΑΝΙΚΟΣ.

Carallia

The coin attributed to Carallia in SNG Pfälzer Privatsammlungen. Kilikien 672 is a regular coin of Canatha, as RPC 2092.

CYPRUS

1819/3. Leu 77, 2000, lot 536, 25.22.

SYRIA

Much new light has been thrown on the coinage of Syria by K. Butcher, Coinage in Roman Syria: northern Syria, 64BC-AD 253 (London, 2004). Although Butcher, CRS, was published after RPC II, account had already been taken of his views as he had kindly allowed access to his (then unpublished) PhD thesis.

Aurei and denarii

JUDAEA

A. Kushnir-Stein, ‘The coinage of Agrippa II’ Scripta Classica Israelica. Yearbook of the Israel Society for the Promotion of Classical Studies 21 (2002), pp. 123-31 has argued convincingly that the problems of the dated coins of Agrippa can be solved by suggesting that they were struck according to two different eras (49 and 60) and so at two different mints (era of 49 at Paneas; era of 60 unsure). It is not clear, however, according to which of the two eras his latest coins (years 34 and 35) are dated; thus coins cannot make a definite contribution to the date of the end of his kingdom at the moment. Her views are not accepted by N. Kokkinos, ‘Justus, Josephus, Agrippa II and his Coins’, Scripta Classica Israelica. Yearbook of the Israel Society for the Promotion of Classical Studies 22 (2003), pp. 163-80.

2281 Add ГСРМА to end of rev. legend.

Domitian’s provincial Judaean coinage

2302/3 : J. Noory coll., 11.97

The Judaea Capta coinage of Vespasian and Titus

As for RPC I, the most important new work is Catalogo Completo della Collezione Dattari Nuni Augg. Alexandrini, ed. A. Savio (Trieste, 1999). Its complete series of rubbings of the coins listed by Dattari (and also the supplementary coins he acquired after the publication of the book) enables many uncertainties to be resolved. The following abbreviation is used: DS. Some of the smaller denominations (with no obverse legend) are poorly preserved, and not considered in detail here.

Vespasian

2426 The only coin cited was D 346, but DS 346 shows that it is a very corroded coin: the date seems to be LI, but the rev. is illegible and the obv. does not definitely seem to be Vespasian. Thus ‘confirmation required’ still.

2446 The only coin cited was D373 and DS 373 shows that the date is not clear, though it could be LE = RPC II, 2439. So the entry for year 7 needs confirmation.

2758A AE. 10mm, 1.17 g. [1]

As 2578, but rev. cornucopia

1. L 2001-5-10-2 (ex Hudson coll.), 1.17.

Domitian

2474 A second specimen (DS 6713) confirms the entry, but is insufficiently clear to help decide whether the legend is ΝΙΑΩΣ or ΝΕΙΑΩΣ.

2478 was cited from only D435. The rubbings of DS 435 and of the second and third specimens DS 6709 and 6711 provide the confirmation required.

2485 is one of the rare coins for Domitian with the title germ in year 2. It is cited from two specimens. One of these, in New York, is illustrated in RPC II, and seems clear. The second was D618, but DS 618 shows that the reading is not clear.

2488 is the other of the rare coins for Domitian with the title germ in year 2. It is cited from two specimens. One of these, in New York, is illustrated in RPC II, and seems clear. The second was D618, but DS 618 shows that the reading is not clear.

2500 was cited uniquely from D491, but DS 491 shows that the date is not clear, so the entry requires confirmation.

82-II-2512A Year 5, bust of Alexandria r. DS 6729. The type is known for other years (e.g. RPC II, 2501 for year 4).

2525 was cited from only D434. DS 434 shows that the date is not illegible, so confirmation is required.

2527 was uniquely cited from D493, and DS 493 confirms the reading.

2541 The citation should be D578, not 579.

2543 was cited uniquely from D486, but DS 485 shows that the date is not clear.

2551 DS 444 shows that the coin has no rev. legend, so it is the same as RPC II, 2550. Delete 2551.

2552 Second and third specimens: DS 6717-8.

2555 The unique piece is now illustrated in DS 470.

2561 The unique piece is now illustrated in DS 511.

2565 The unique piece is now illustrated in DS 467.

2569 was cited from two specimens neither of which had been illustrated, but DS 624 is sufficiently clear to provide confirmation.

2574 was cited uniquely from D508, but DS 508 shows that the date is not clear and might be year 11.

2575 was cited uniquely from D524, but DS 524 shows that the date is not clear.

2584 D568 is actually a specimen of RPC II 2585, as DS 568 shows.

82-II-2587A 20mm, with hawk reverse (as 2569 for year 9). Year 10 is attested with two forms of the obverse: E from DS 6842 (plate 23) and El from DS 6843.
2589 A second specimen: DS 6822 (plate 23).

2595 was cited uniquely from D537, but DS 537 shows that the date is not clear.

S2-II-2595A Griffin seated r with wheel (LI in exergue: Jarman; cf. BMC Suppl. 2731). Perhaps also DS 6831 (plate 23).

2601 is obverse E, and there is no rev. legend. A new specimen from Umm Balad, also obv. E, is much clearer and shows that the figure is Demeter standing l. with corn ears and long torch (as was found standing r. for year 10: RPC 2576).

2617 DS 549ff provides 13 more illustrations of Pharos coins, for years 11 to 15.

2632 Despite note 69, D 473 has the normal obverse, as DS 473 shows.

S2-II-266A As 2666 but obv. bust to l.: DS 539-40.

2686 D471 is an error for D474.

2694 The unique piece is now illustrated in DS 460.

S2-II-2702A 20mm, with uraeus reverse (as 2664-5 for year 12). Year 13 is attested by DS 6846 (plate 23).

S2-II-2702B 20mm, with uraeus reverse (as 2664-5 for year 12). Year 13 is attested by DS 6846 (plate 23).

2709 was cited uniquely from D500; confirmed by DS 500 and 6744.

2711 The unique piece is now illustrated in DS 457.

2719 was cited from only 1 specimen: DS 6745 is a second.

p. 338 note 16: two coins were cited for Domitian with dates later than year 15, but not accepted by RPC II: (i) D459 was described as year 16, but the coin, as DS 459 shows, has an illegible year; and (ii) D553 was described as rev. design Pharos with the impossible year 19, but the date on DS 553 is not illegible. It is described by DS as LIE, which is possible (RPC II, 2732).

Small denominations

14mm, 1.37g (axis: 12) caduceus between corn ears LI A could also be Trajan L 2001-3-3-3.

11mm, 0.90g (axis: 12) three cornears LΘ S2-2759A. The type is recorded in RPC for Vespasian year 8. = L 2001-3-35-7.

11mm, 1.11g (axis: 12) cornucopia [L] Γ S2-2766A. The type is recorded in RPC for Vespasian years 8-9. The portrait is clearly Vespasian = L 2001-3-35-6.

UNCERTAIN

2804 is a coin of Aspendus. See S2-II-1520A and B above.

2805 now L 2001-5-1 (6.90g: axis: 2).

INDEX : CITIES

This index has two columns: the left is for the Julio-Claudian period (RPC I) and the right for RPC II (the Flavian period). This enables a comparison to be made between the two periods.

It includes all the information in RPC I-II, as well as Supplement 1-2. S means Supplement 1, and S2 means Supplement 2 (this website).

As previously, the Index is to catalogue numbers, or occasionally to page numbers (prefixed by p.). The index entry is marked S+ or S2+ if it includes a new catalogue entry; otherwise a simple S or S2 denotes that some additional information can be found, but that there are no additional catalogue entries. A entry for a new city is marked with an asterisk (*); if the new city appears for the first time in S2, then it is marked with two asterisks ()..

The index does not give references to cities mentioned in the general and provincial introductions or in the mint introductions to other cities. Nor does it include the minor corrigenda (see Supplement I, p. 6).
